Cavaretta Homers

Cubs Take Opener, 9-0

BRIGGS STADIUM, DETROIT, Oct. 3.—Chicago Cubs drove the feared Hal Newhouser to the showers in a hurry today and exploded an extra-base hit barrage to take a 9-0 victory over Detroit Tigers in the first game of the 1945 world series.

Fordham Hank Borowy, acquired by the Cubs from the New York Yankees in July, turned in a magnificent job of hurling for the winners in chilly weather. Hank's shutout was the first in a world series contest since 1940.

Phil Cavaretta, Cub first baseman led the hit parade with two singles and a towering home run smash. Handy Andy Pafko also snared three safe blows.

9,000 Workers Now Out In Meat Ration Protest

By The Canadian Press

No hope for settlement of the strike by almost 9,000 western Canadian coal miners in protest of meat rationing was apparent today. While the Dominion's rationing authority—the Prices Board—said the black-diamond diggers are not entitled to preferred treatment, a representative of the United Mine Workers of America, CCL union, retaliated with "our miners say they can't dig coal on the present ration of meat and they say further they won't."

The strike started last Thursday when 4,500 men from the Drumheller and Crow's Nest Pass in Southern Alberta walked off their jobs in protest of the rationing. Yesterday 300 Edmonton district miners voted to join.

MORE JOIN STRIKE

Earlier, coal-diggers in the Nanaimo, B.C., area and the Coleman, Blairmore and Belevue districts of Alberta joined in the struggle. They say they cannot work on the present 1 1/3 pounds of meat allowed weekly.

Alberta Govt. Asks License For Red Deer Radio Station

Application for a private commercial radio license for a 50,000-watt broadcasting station to be located at Red Deer has been made by the Alberta government, it was announced Wednesday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works and in charge of radio.

The application follows on the heels of the refusal of the Dominion government to transfer the license for broadcasting station CKUA from the University of Alberta to the Alberta telephones department, and to grant a commercial license for the station.

In a letter, dated Oct. 2, addressed to Dr. Augustin Frigon, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Fallow wrote:

City Buildings, Streets Become Gaily Decorated

Edmonton buildings and streets are gaily decorated, and excitement is at a high pitch in anticipation of the homecoming of two of the city's fighting units, the 33rd Field Company, RCE, and The Loyal Edmonton Regiment. The Engineers are due to arrive at the CNR station Thursday at 10 a.m. and the infantry regiment is expected about 2:30 p.m. Saturday. There is a possibility of a change in the time of arrival of these trains, and if any is made it will be announced immediately.

The engineers' parade on Thursday will be augmented by hundreds of original 9th Army Troops men, who have previously returned. Lt.-Col. Phillip Delmey, MM, ED, original commander of the unit who went to Winnipeg to meet the train, will lead his men in the parade.

SPECIAL CEREMONY

The Loyal Edmonton Regiment has planned a ceremony of its own. It will present a plaque to the City of Edmonton which will be accepted by Mayor Fry, and a similar plaque to Mrs. Griesbach, widow of Maj.-Gen. W. A. Griesbach, CB, CMG, DSO, VD, who is known as the "father of the 49th". Lt.-Col. W. T. Cromb, DSO, commanding officer of The Loyal Edmonton Regi-

First Indication Internal Nippon Troubles Seen

From CP, AP and British UP Dispatches

HEADQUARTERS ALLIED ARMY OF OCCUPATION, TOKYO, Oct. 3.—Threats of famine in Japan brought fresh troubles to the Japanese cabinet today, and reports of a rice riot in Northern Japan with rumblings of disorders in other parts of the Nipponese home empire indicate that the disorders will spread.

Women by the thousands are writing the Japanese premier, Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni, complaining they are having difficulty in obtaining food, his letters on this matter alone having reached the total of 1,000 in one mail.

Lifting of the press censorship by General MacArthur has inspired a healthy reaction in Japanese newspapers. Several papers, previously suppressed for their utterances, are now openly critical of Premier Kuni's cabinet and are charging the government with delay, incompetence and timidity. The Tokyo Mainichi, one of the most influential Japanese publications, says that if Premier Kuni's cabinet

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Oct. 3.—(CP)—Steve Zolkivskit, an Edmonton taxi driver, and two of his passengers, Louise Hogan and James Sutherland, Manitoba, were jailed here in Kenora provincial jail today on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Victor Francis Hogan, a fourth member of the party, is being held at International Falls, Minn., for police in Kenora, on a similar charge.

The quartet left Edmonton in Zolkivskit's taxi last week.

Police said they would be taken to Kenora to face the charges.

Edmonton Girl Soldier "Alone" on Troop Train

By E. R. HORTON
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Reporter

KIPLING, Sask., Oct. 3.—To be the only girl on an 11-car train with more than 300 men will probably be a memory to live long with Cpl. Eunice Pitts, CWAC, who is a passenger on the Edmonton-bound special CNR train bearing the 33rd Field Company RCE homeward across the prairies on Wednesday morning. Cpl. Pitts is the daughter of Mrs. R. E. Pitts, 11409 96 street, and has been overseas for more than 18 months.

She joined the CWAC more than three years ago, and says that she is very glad she was able to get overseas and not to have spent her whole service in Canada.

Only one or two of the girls in her group working at Canada House, just off Trafalgar Square in London, were injured by the flying bomb raids on London, the corporal said, and their injuries were of a minor nature, being scratches from flying glass. She had been doing clerical work in the CMHQ office there for nearly 18 months.

She had spent her leaves like many Canadians in Scotland and Northern Ireland, and was particularly delighted with one she had spent in Edinburgh on New Year's Eve. She had first footed many a Scottish household that gala hogmanay night, she said, as she wondered whence the Scottish reputation for frugality had arisen.

"Have you ever been overseas," she counter queried, when she was asked how it felt to be back in Canada, and that was answer enough.

Miss Pitts is a tall, striking looking lady, who eventually told reporters that she was really tired of answering questions with which she had been plagued all the way across Canada. However, she also said that the reception which had been given to the train she also said that the reception which had been given to the train-

Truman Proposes Seaway Project

By C. R. BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(CP)—President Truman today urged Congress to enact legislation speedily to carry out construction of the St. Lawrence waterway and power project.

In a special message, he recommended approval of a Canada-United States agreement of March 19, 1941, for development of the St. Lawrence basin as a part "of our program of international cooperation, expanding foreign trade and domestic progress in commerce and industry."

The President described the vast seaway power project, rejected by Congress in the past, as one of the "great constructive projects of the North American continent, in fact, one of the great projects of the world, which was delayed by the exigencies of war."

American to Hang For Slaying Woman

Fort murdering Mrs. Edna Ida Rogers near Dawson Creek last July 12, Bryan Bruce Potter, American citizen who was employed in the north country for about a year, will hang Jan. 10.

Potter was convicted of the crime by Mr. Justice Coady at Pouce Coupe, Tuesday after court heard testimony from Maxine Leone Rogers, 15 years old, and Walter Ernest Rogers, 12, children of the woman who died from stab wounds inflicted on her throat with a kitchen knife. The slaying took place in the cabin of an auto camp near Dawson Creek.

Dr. L. L. Giroux of Dawson Creek testified that the woman's throat was cut by a sharp instrument and death by hemorrhage followed.

Fighting Engineers Recount War Tasks

By E. R. HORTON
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Reporter

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 3.—A story of hard work, clearing minefields, building bridges and taking part in assault crossings of European rivers was told in Winnipeg Tuesday night by men of the 33rd Field Company, RCE, the first Edmonton unit to land in its home city as a formation. Leaving Winnipeg on the CNR at about 2:00 a.m. on Wednesday morning it is expected that they will arrive in Edmonton on Thursday morning or early afternoon.

There are a number of other army units on the train who will be detraining in Edmonton and there is also what is called a "heterogenous draft" most of them destined to stay in Alberta's capital city, but there are also a large number who will be shipped to Calgary and to Vancouver by the first available regular train.

The parade planned by military and civil personnel as a part of the "welcome home" ceremony for the 33rd Field Company will be known as eight officers and about 150 others, according to Capt. M. A. La Salle, of Ottawa who will be officer commanding the company for the parade through the home city's streets. Capt. La Salle told of joining the

Huge Sugar Dump Is Found in Java

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(CP)—Rationing officials who had predicted that sugar rationing in the United States would remain through 1946 were revising their estimates today in light of statement by Agriculture Secretary Anderson last night that 1,600,000 tons of sugar had been discovered in Java ports.

Mr. Anderson said this would greatly ease the world sugar situation.

In Ottawa, prices board officials said they had no information on the reported find.

KIPLING, Sask., Oct. 3.—Though he wore the shoulder flashes of the Royal Canadian Engineers and though he had been with the 10 Field Park Company, RCE, for a time in Europe, Capt. A. H. Cowen, 10142 83 avenue, now on the west-bound CNR special headed for Edmonton, had worked with the Canadian Intelligence Corps and had been field press censor during the northwestern Europe campaign.

He had been the only Canadian censor in Berlin and had with a party of newspaper men visited the infamous Buchenwald internment camp, he said.

Most of the correspondents had been very fair and he indicated that they had made little effort to put anything over on the censors.

His associations with the correspondents had been most cordial, he said, as he mentioned nearly a dozen well-known Canadian newspapermen with whom he had come in contact. Among those he had met and remembered only by their last name were Munro Halton, Griffin, Bennie, Allen and Kent.

IN ROBOT RAIDS

He had been in Antwerp during the devastating flying bomb raids on that unfortunate Belgian city. At times during the high point of the raids, as many as 85 of the winged bombs had dropped on the city and in the area about it. One of the V2's had dropped on a movie house one afternoon, killing 800 people, most of them service personnel.

Capt. Cowen reached Berlin July 3 1945, with the Canadian forces where he was the only Canadian among the field press censors.

Happy City Soldiers Speed Toward Homes

By Edmonton Bulletin Special Correspondent Aboard Loyal Edmontons' Train

MONCTON, N.B., Oct. 3.—On Canadian soil at last more than 500 officers and men of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment were speeding westward towards home today on a special Canadian National Railways troop train. Delayed in their departure from the Atlantic coast port of Halifax, the men did not leave Halifax until 8:30 p.m., three hours behind schedule. But it is expected that the train will reach Edmonton early Saturday afternoon.

The delay was not anybody's fault. But so many troops have been disembarked off the Nieuw Amsterdam and the Ile de France, which arrived in Halifax Saturday and Monday that Canadian railways just didn't have enough sleeping cars, armed forces sleepers and diners and commissariate cars to go around. Result was that the Edmontons couldn't leave until the cars to carry them had returned from Quebec where it delivered the Royal 22nd Regiment Monday.

When the order to disembark finally came at 6:45 p.m. the men were all ready and the first man down the gang plank to put foot on Canadian soil was CSM Earl

No Preference To Miners Says Prices Board

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—The prices board said last night that in its opinion "no case has been made which would distinguish the coal miner from workers in many other heavy occupations and entitle him to preferential treatment" under the meat rationing system.

A board statement said requests had been received from a number of labor groups that workers in heavy industries be given larger meat rations than the present rationing system provides. Meetings were held with labor organizations, including United Mineworkers of America, District 18, which represents several thousand coal miners striking in Western Canada for increased rations.

The statement quoted this reply from K. W. Taylor, the board's foods co-ordinator, following these meetings:

NO CASE MADE

"In the opinion of the board, no case has been made which would distinguish the coal miner from workers in many other heavy occupations and entitle him to the preferred treatment required, which was double the present meat ration and the removal of cooked meats from the ration list.

"The board is unable to accede to the request that heavy workers be provided with differential rationing."

Mr. Taylor said the Canadian advisory committee on nutrition had reported after careful study that it was "unanimously of the opinion that differential meat rationing on the basis of occupation is unnecessary from the viewpoint of nutrition."

No country, Mr. Taylor added, had been able to devise a workable system of differentiating between grades of workers in their rations on the scales of meat rationing. The only exception was Germany but even its increased supplies for heavy workers did not pull the full ration above Canada's standard of two pounds per week, regardless of weight. The United States had attempted to develop a plan of increased rations for miners but its proposals had been unacceptable to the miners' union.

Channel Island Gets Visit From Canada Warship

ST. HELIER, Jersey, Channel Islands, Oct. 2.—(CP)—Canada's newest warship — the destroyer Crescent—received a rousing welcome here yesterday when it steamed into St. Helier harbor for an official visit to Jersey, the Channel Island which was occupied by the Germans until May of this year.

The brand-new British-built Crescent and her crew were welcomed by Toronto-born Lt.-Gen. Sir Edward Grasset, KBE, CB, DSO, MC, lieutenant-governor of the island. He expressed the deep gratitude of Jersey residents for thousands of Canadian Red Cross food parcels which helped hold off starvation during the Nazi regime.

Newbold, sergeant major of "D" company. Last to arrive the ship was Major F. H. MacDougall, DSO, second in command of the unit.

HANDED "COMFORTS"

As they walked off the gang planks the men were handed cigarettes, cigarettes, matches, playing cards, crib boards and other comforts by volunteer Red Cross workers from Halifax who have been working almost steadily since the Nieuw Amsterdam docked Saturday. Then on the station platform they received hot coffee and doughnuts from Red Cross canteen wagons.

Everybody aboard the train agreed that it was a first class welcome and wondered that they received from the people of Halifax. "Makes a fellow feel that they are glad to set us home safely. Somebody ought to give them a big vote of thanks for this," stated one of the veteran sergeants.

Aboard the train the men found that they were to travel home in style. The armed forces sleeping cars are travelling to make up into sleeping bunks at night just like standard sleepers. Two men share the lower berth, one man to each upper. Although the men have to make up their own beds they sleep in sheets and have pillows and pillow cases. The army was never like this. This is the first time I've had sheets on my bed since I joined the army in 1940," smiled one lad from an upper bunk later.

TRURO FIRST STOP

First stop en route was at Truro, N.S., at 10:45 p.m. Here again volunteer workers and a reception committee came aboard the train to hand out good Canadian apples to everybody. The men were overwhelmed by the hospitality they were receiving on every side, comparing it largely at least to the lap of the long trip home, all the men could say was thank you with big satisfied grins.

They were excited to go to bed, most of the men sat and talked until midnight. Some were playing cards. In one car one man was playing a guitar and a group grouped around him to sing songs, some of which they learned in Germany.

In another car a man was showing a couple of interested companions the inner mysteries of violin playing. In another car three of the boys were giving out in a mouth-organ trio. Everybody was happy and having fun. Nobody was talking about the old battles—everyone was speculating on what it would be like to be home again.

Naval Strength Down to 10,000 By Next April

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—Strength of the Royal Canadian Navy which stood at 95,000 at April 1, 1945, will be reduced to about 10,000 by March 31, 1946, Defence Minister Abbott told the Commons last night while presenting revised estimates for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Abbott said the 10,000 figure would include all the officers of the permanent force supplemented by members of the reserve who enlisted for service during a two-year period.

This was taken to mean that the peacetime strength of the navy will be around 10,000 men, possibly manning a fleet of about 20 ships and a number of ancillary craft. The total aircraft carriers less than 2,000 men who had about five ships at their disposal before the second World War.

CLASS OF SHIPS

It has been speculated that the ships would include the cruisers Uganda and Ontario, now in the Pacific, the aircraft carriers Warrior and Magnificent and Tribal and Crescent class destroyers, the latter some now being built.

The minister did not finish his speech before the 11 o'clock adjournment and he said that he might not have a chance to conclude before next week because today is private members' day.

The Navy's plans for participation in the occupation of Japan, the employment afloat of some 13,000 men, plus a reserve pool of 10,000 men, he said. "Actually, some 38,000 had volunteered for Pacific duty. Of the remaining 57,000 in the service on V-E day some 20,000 were required for continuing commitments elsewhere than in the Pacific; the balance were demobilized.

"On Sept. 26, more than 19,000 personnel had been discharged from the Navy, and almost 22,000 more have now been released, representing in all close to one-half of the total strength as it stood on V-J Day. Within the next four months an average of 10,000 should go out each month, and by March 31 next the size of the service in men should be down to approximately 10,000."

WRENS CUT BACK

The Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service was reduced by 1,000 in the period between July and Aug. 31. About half of the 5,424 would be retained until the end of the year, when the women's service would be completely demobilized.

Mr. Abbott said that the authorized strength of the permanent Royal Canadian Navy was 771 officers and 8,003 ratings.

The actual strength now was 534 officers and 6,000 ratings.

It now was proposed to supplement the permanent force by the addition of volunteers from the reserves, new enlistments and cadet entries. Before Christmas the Canadian Naval College would supply the men required for the permanent force.

SHIP PROGRAM

After an outline of demobilization procedure, Mr. Abbott outlined the ship program. The Tribal class destroyer construction had been discontinued. The first such destroyer—the Mismac—was accepted Sept. 14, 1946. Four would be completed in 1946 and a fourth was expected to become available in 1947.

"All these Tribal destroyers will have the latest anti-submarine fleet and it is consistent with the government's policy to complete the program," said Mr. Abbott.

"At the time of Germany's surrender last May, Canada had the fourth largest fleet actively engaged in the cause of the United Nations. In six years there had been a 2,000 per cent increase in its size, and this increase was a modern record."

Curtailment of the navy had called for the closing down of many naval bases.

However, at Halifax, the main fleet base on the east coast would be operated along with the dockyard on a scale necessary to meet requirements.

The main fleet base on the west coast would be at Esquimalt.

The principle ammunition depots of the service would be at Bedford, N.S., at Kamloops, B.C. Naval service headquarters would remain in Ottawa.

Mr. Abbott led off his speech with a summary of navy operations during the year under review.

Order of Kutuzov Is Being Conferred On General Crerar

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(Reuters)—The Order of Kutuzov First Class will be awarded to Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, who commanded the 1st Canadian Army, the Moscow radio announced tonight.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) gave notice yesterday of a question asking if the Canadian Pacific Railway has divested itself of the ownership of Canadian Pacific Air Lines, and, if not, "has the government taken any steps designed to achieve this end." Legislation at the last session of Parliament provided that both Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific Air Lines be divested of control of their parent companies, the CNR and the CPR.

captured capital which was to have been made at the same time as that of the British forces but delayed for about ten hours while the Russians investigated a somewhat involved legal point as to whether or not the Canadians should be admitted. The Red Army according to Capt. Cowen was mystified by the delay's points in legality and in administration.

Though they were strict they were also very cordial, he said, but the Russians hold their emotions in being very sloppy. However, he added they seemed to know their jobs, and that is the most important thing.

BERLINERS APATHETIC

Apathy marked the attitude of the still living Berliners when he entered that flattened city, where the heaps of rubble were considerable the miles of rubble which marked the centre of the once-proud capital. The Germans with whom he talked, he said, were completely devoid of a knowledge of English, all claimed that the war was the work of the Nazi party and that if they had been consulted the war membership had been forced upon them.

Gangs of women were called to the Soviet billeting office to dispose of the bodies of the dead. These women worked from ten in the morning to five in the afternoon and were allowed to respond to the call to do the heavy and distasteful work received no food coupons. It was a job which was a matter of work or starve. Most of the German women, it seemed, preferred to starve.

His group had been billeted quite well in private houses on the southern fringe of the city, Capt. Cowen said, as he described the house in which he was placed as well furnished by any standard. "It was occupied by a doctor and his wife, whom he presumed were the father and mother of the owner of the house."

AGAINST SOFT PEACE

Those people who are advocating a soft peace for the Germans should pay a visit as he did to the Buchenwald concentration camp, he said. He had himself regarded some of the horror stories from the torture camps as propaganda until he with the Russian soldiers and men visited the internment centre.

It was about six weeks after the camp had been cleared that they had paid their visit, he said. Not all the sleeping and eating quarters, though they had been aired out and well whitewashed, had been with the infamous camp near Weimar had been in operation.

What he called the torture paraphernalia was still intact, he said, as he described a tiny kennel about three feet high, two feet wide and two feet high into which recalcitrant prisoners were forced. Too short to lie down and too low to permit kneeling or sitting, prisoners were sometimes left in them for as many as four days.

In the same compound the infamous crematoriums grimly doors yawned open grimly.

FIND "PICKLED" BODIES

In one room at the camp head quarters was a collection of pickled human parts. These were taken from the bodies of some of the victims of the slaying Monday of Reginald Claude Price, 39-year-old taxi driver, when his widow reported she found his wallet containing $260 on a dresser in her home. Price was believed to have been carrying the money with him when last seen early Monday.

Detectives have since been making other possibilities in the slaying of the University of British Columbia graduate who had taken the job as part-time taxi driver while he was enough money to pay for the home he was building his bride of eight months. Police have refused to hidden underneath a green cost in the front seat of his cab. Four bullets had been pumped into his body from close range.

Other theories now being investigated by police include murder for vengeance and possibility of mistaken identity.

James Price, brother of the dead man and operator of the Pacific Coast Taxi Company for which the victim worked, suggested the bullets which killed his brother may have been intended for himself.

The vengeance theory arises from the fact the slaying appears to have been planned by one or more killers who made sure Price would not live to identify them.

Radio License

application for a private commercial radio license for a 50,000-watt radio station to be located at Red Deer, Alberta.

"The growing importance of the northern territories (CKCK) beyond the scope of present radio facilities, makes it imperative that adequate provision be made to take care of this very pressing need."

The minister pointed out that with a 50,000-watt station working in conjunction with the telephone system, there would be ample facilities for complete coverage of the entire province as well as the northern area, with a 7 a.m. to midnight continuous service.

He wrote further: "From the operation of such a radio station it would be possible to greatly increase the educational facilities of the province, both in the field of radio and in our schools and the university.

"INTERFERENCE"

"Furthermore, it cannot be charged that the granting of this license would interfere with the CBC broadcasting service existing in the City of Edmonton."

Mr. Fallow received no communication regarding the refusal but he understood growers to grant the request for a commercial license. A letter to Dr. Robert Newton, president of the university, from the assistant controller of radio advised him that the department had passed a resolution denying the request and definitely stating that no further consideration be given the application for "a period of at least two years."

"Accordingly, the department is not in a position to consider further any application for a transfer of the license during the present time," the assistant controller stated.

LICENSES ISSUED

CKUA records reveal that prior to April 1, 1946, the licenses were issued as private commercial licenses, and that the first time any application on the basis of operation appeared was in a letter dated April 1, 1941, to March 31, 1942. The restriction stated, "This license is issued subject to the condition that the station be operated on a non-commercial basis only."

This action was subsequent to the 1941 announcement that it was intended to operate on a commercial basis, according to CKUA officials.

Upon receipt of a copy from Dr. Newton of the letter he received from the assistant controller, turning down the commercial license application, Mr. Fallow wrote to the minister of transport, Hon. James J. McCann, as follows:

SCORES "METHODS"

"In the absence of the common courtesy of a reply to my correspondence between the government of Alberta and the government of Canada, I feel that this is by no means by which your government seeks to terminate an important issue, a group of which recently has not the intestinal fortitude to face itself.

"I can quite understand your timidity in giving your personal approval to a decision of the board of governors which could only be arrived at by process of reasoning utterly devoid of either principle or fact.

"From the moment of our first application for a commercial license for CKUA on the 1st of April, 1944, pressure has been brought to bear on the board of governors of the university by certain financially interested in stations CJCA and CFRN. Throughout the negotiations it was plain to be seen that the board of governors was determined to meet the demands of these private interests, no matter what injustice or unfairness it would mean to the people of Alberta."

In his letter to Dr. McCann, the minister stated that he had been approached by different individuals who said that if they could purchase CKUA they could definitely would be granted a commercial license.

NOT FOR SALE

"I wish to assure you that radio station CKUA is not for sale, and will continue to perform the legitimate functions of radio broadcasting despite the discriminating actions of the board of governors.

"In the meantime, I can assure you that the matter is not going to be shelved for two years, as suggested."

An invitation has been extended to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and other radio stations by CKUA to take part in an open forum discussion to be aired on CKUA, Oct. 18, it was announced by station officials Wednesday.

During the course of the discussion it is proposed to air the representatives' opinions of CKUA's application for a commercial broadcasting license.

At a later date it is probable that a forum, in which the public may participate, will be broadcast.

Police Seek Clues Coast Murder Case

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Police yesterday ruled out robbery as a motive in the slaying Monday of Reginald Claude Price, 39-year-old taxi driver, when his widow reported she found his wallet containing $260 on a dresser in her home. Price was believed to have been carrying the money with him when last seen early Monday.

Detectives have since been making other possibilities in the slaying of the University of British Columbia graduate who had taken the job as part-time taxi driver while he was building his bride of eight months. Divorce Bill Is "Talked Out" In Parliament

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—George Black (PC—Yukon) last night sought second hearing in the commons to a bill to amend the divorce act but discussion on the measure was not terminated in the hour set aside for the study of private bills and it now goes to the bottom of list on the order paper.

The bill would have allowed a woman deserted by her husband to take divorce action in the province in which she lived for at least two years after the desertion. Under the present law the woman must take a divorce action in the province in which the desertion occurred.

General MacArthur today restricted Japanese overseas financial and "all other subversive" groups. Authorities are particularly vigilant, they said, against any evidence that these groups might be going underground to continue rightist activities which were instrumental in whipping Japan into war.

JAP "PROMOTIONS"

The warning to Japan to keep its hands completely off Korean government affairs followed purported "promotions" of Japanese officials or civil functionaries serving in southern Korea. "All such purported promotions are ineffective," Allied headquarters said, adding that its own military government is the sole authority in Korea.

Miners Strike

miners in the Alberta area along with delegates from Michel and Fernie, B.C., met to discuss a wage case in the Prices Board which rejected requests for increased rations and suggested the men return to work. However they decided to remain idle while the board reconsidered their demands.

The Prices Board said in a statement the advisory committee on nutrition reported that differential meat rationing on the basis of occupation is unnecessary from the viewpoint of nutrition.

MINERS INCENSED

Prices Board chairman Donald Gordon told union heads at Calgary the government would consider the miners' requests "only after the men return to work."

Mayor Enoch Williams of Blairmore, secretary of that town's union, said the miners are incensed at the attitude . . . and with the attitude of Ottawa."

Hansell Speech Is Criticized In Parliament

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) last night in the Commons criticized Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-Medicine) for a statement he made in the house earlier to the effect that Christian democracies could not cooperate with totalitarian states.

"I think the statement made was very unwise no matter how true the member might consider it to be," said Mr. MacInnis.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King had left Canada during a parliamentary session because of the gravity of the international situation. He believed nothing should be said to increase that gravity.

unit just after they had finished building the first Canadian bridge across the Rhine river at Emmerich in Germany. This was a "class 40" bridge capable of carrying the heaviest military traffic.

The unit's job, had been that of clearing minefields, maintaining roads, building bridges and clearing booby traps all the way across France, before he had joined the outfit, he said, and paid special tribute to what had been done with the company by its previous commanding officer, Major R. T. "Dusty" Miller, also of Ottawa.

CSM. R. Allen, of Westlock, whose wife is waiting for him there, was one of the group which left Edmonton on January, 1940, with the 5th Army Troops Company RCE, of which the 33rd Field Company is the perpetuating unit.

ON CONSTRUCTION

Since he left Canada he has taken part in the construction of many of the Canadian Army buildings in England, including part of the big hospital at Bramshott. When asked if the newspapers are telling the truth on the Rhine had been constructed under fire, he replied that they had not—that the artillery and the infantry had driven the Gerries back before the bridge had been started.

CSM. A. M. Hall, 12918 121 Street, is another with the same story as his companion warrant officer. He too had left Edmonton with the unit and said that he was "tickled to death to be back in Canada."

German four-point-two mortar bombs are still being used by the miners during road construction in Holland, according to Spr. J. C. Lawrence of Capreol, who went to England more than three years ago with the engineer reinforcements.

He said that he couldn't quite believe it when he was asked about how he felt now that he was back home again. He wasn't quite sure about what he would do when he got out of the army, but hoped that he would be out of it very soon. He had been a farm laborer just before the war.

Spr. L. G. Castle of Mission City, B.C., pointed to the sheets and pillows on his bed and commented on the fact that they were there, saying that on the trip there hadn't been anything but blankets for the boys.

Winnipeg's welcome home groups met the train in force and handed out cigarettes and chocolate bars to the troops generously. The station was plastered with people anxious to greet their own boys and to speed the others on their way.

Pleads Innocent To Murder Charge

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Daniel Hurley, 19-year-old merchant seaman pleaded not guilty yesterday when he was arraigned in criminal court on a charge of murdering Shirley Stone, 28.

The slain nude body was found Sept. 26 on a basement stairway. Coroner A. L. Broedie said she had been raped, but she suffered severe multiple lacerations and several ribs were fractured.

Miss Stone, daughter of Ingvar Stone and Mrs. Hortense Stone of Winnipeg, was employed as a cosmetics clerk in a drug store. Hurley is a resident of Clayton, Mo.

Prosecutor James V. Cunningham said Hurley confessed he "disrobed and strangled with" the girl, then fled after she fell down the stairway. Trial was set for Nov. 5. Miss Stone's body was sent to Ochre River, Man., for burial.

Minister Announces

Will Ask Commons Approval On Continuing War Controls

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Parliament will be asked to take responsibility for the continuance of wartime controls during the transition period, Justice Minister St. Laurent said last night in the Commons.

Answering criticism from Maj. E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) about delay in proclaiming the end of the war and returning to parliament its full legislative jurisdiction, Mr. St. Laurent said the bill announced at the opening of parliament to "extend certain emergency powers to meet emergency conditions in the period of reconstruction" had been prepared prior to Aug. 28.

"Just as soon as there is an opportunity that bill will be introduced and parliament will be asked to take its responsibility because it is a considerable responsibility."

The minister said the government already had taken steps to remove some of the controls and he doubted if anyone would suggest they should be swept away all at once.

WAR ESTIMATES

Discussion took place on the resolution preliminary to introduction of the $1,365,000,000 war and demobilization appropriation bill. The resolution received first reading and consideration in committee of the whole again with an opening statement on naval estimates from Defence Minister Abbott.

Earlier international affairs ranging from co-operation with Russia to free immigration of Jews to Palestine figured in the debate.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-Macleod) said he questioned whether Christian democracies could ever co-operate with Russia which he described as a totalitarian state and Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) urged Canadian government support for more immigration to Palestine.

This wide-ranging discussion took place on the government's $1,635,000,000 war expenditures and demobilization appropriation bill which came before the House in its preliminary resolution stage.

Mr. Knowles was questioned by Arthur Smith (PC-Calgary West) on whether he would be ready to send Canadian soldiers to Palestine to fight the Arabs if necessary. Mr. Knowles replied that was a hypothetical question as he believed the Arabs were bluffing.

URGED PROCLAMATION

A suggestion by Maj. E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) that a proclamation be issued declaring the war at an end so that government by order-in-council would cease drew Justice Minister St. Laurent into the debate.

He said the War Measures Act was passed in 1914 by parliament with a Conservative government. The government could not now power that was not delegated to it by parliament and parliament had thought it wise to pass that act. It provided that the powers should start when a proclamation was issued declaring a state of war and end when a proclamation declared the state of war had ended.

"Actual hostilities have ceased but a state of war still exists at the present time," he said.

If any member of parliament wished to end the powers exercised by the government he could introduce a bill to repeal the War Measures Act. The government could only carry on with the confidence of a majority of the Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent said there were a total of 94,721 formal acts of government from the outbreak of war to last month. They included 58,202 orders-in-council and 36,329 minutes of treasury board approved by council.

MINOR ITEMS

Large numbers of these related to contracts for war supplies, buildings and land, appointments to and resignations from the government service, purely administrative in character. Of those which would be termed actual legislation a great number related to the application of price and wage control. "This probably accounted for the larger number of orders in the Second Great War, compared with the First Great War.

"Rightly or wrongly—and I think the majority of the people believe rightly," he said, "this government decided to prevent inflation by controlling prices and wages. That necessitated a great number of orders and these orders had to be amended and varied frequently."

At the opening of proceedings Finance Minister Ilsley, as acting prime minister, announced the creation of a "Canadian information service" to continue part of the activities of the wartime information board and in his own capacity, announced terms of settlement of the Saskatchewan seed grain dispute.

URGE UNRRA SUPPORT

During discussion on the war appropriation and demobilization resolution, Mr. Knowles also appealed for generous support by Canada for the United Nations Relief and Re-habilitation Administration.

Canada's record in connection with UNRRA was good but there was danger the organization would not function as fully as it should because of neglect and lack of spirit in the support given it.

It was useless for Canada to try to build up her standard of living "if we are going to let the world go to rack and ruin through the deterioration of the countries torn by war."

City, District Men Returning From Overseas

The following Edmonton and district soldiers of the Canadian Army who landed at Halifax on Monday aboard the liner Ile de France are on their way west and are scheduled to arrive at Calgary within the next few days.

On arrival at Calgary they will disperse to their homes, and those from Edmonton and district are expected to come north as soon as possible thereafter.

CONGRATULATIONS. — His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, who on Wednesday was receiving congratulations on his 73rd birthday anniversary. He has been lieutenant governor of the province since 1937. He was born at Ottawa, Oct. 3, 1872, and came first to this city in 1912 as minister of Strathcona Baptist church. During the Great War of 1914-1918 he served as a chaplain overseas with the Canadian Corps. Returning here in 1918 he served as an alderman and later was elected to the Alberta Legislature and for some time he was house leader of the Liberal party.

HBC GOVERNOR PRESENTS AWARD—At a gathering of the Hudson's Bay Company's staff on Tuesday evening the governor of the company, Sir Patrick Ashley Cooper, presented a long service award to Clinton Bowen who has just completed 35 years service in the Edmonton store. Mr. Bowen joined the company in September, 1910, and was first employed as delivery driver for one of the horse-drawn vehicles used at that time. He drove the company's first motor vehicle used for delivery, one of the first trucks in Edmonton. He holds the company's long service medal and at Tuesday evening's presentation received the 5-year gold bar. The 35-year long-service award carries with it the privilege of an extra two weeks holiday each year and a check for a substantial amount. Mrs. Bowen, who was also present, was the recipient of 35 roses representing the 35 years her husband has served the company. Above picture shows Sir Patrick making the presentation, a view of the store Glee Club which contributed to the program and the governor's official flag which is always flown on the occasion of a visit from the governor.

Professor to Seek Data at University

Dr. John Coleman, former professor of mathematics at Queen's University now on the staff of the World's Student Christian Federation, is visiting Student Christian Movement groups throughout the world and will be in Edmonton over Thanksgiving week-end.

Dr. Coleman is collecting data on university and religious education for the International Student Service. This group has done great work in wartime in aiding prisoners-of-war in continuing their studies and is now endeavoring to aid in the reinstation of European universities which were devastated by the war.

Rev. Robert Tilman, a graduate of the University of Alberta and St. Stephen's College, is at present doing ISS work at the universities in Holland.

Dr. Coleman, who is a lay delegate to the Canadian Council of Churches, will be guest speaker at Holy Trinity on Thanksgiving Sunday, Oct. 7, at 11 a.m. On Sunday evening at 9 o'clock, Dr. Coleman will address a city-wide meeting of young people at All Saints' Parish Hall.

On Oct. 9, Dr. Coleman will address varsity students at an SCM students' open forum to be held in the university cafeteria banquet-room.

Only Minor Damage Is Caused by Fire

Slight damage was caused by fire which broke out after a pot of candy was ignited in the kitchen of Pavey Candies Ltd., 9627 105A avenue at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Police said the fire was caused when the candy caught and was ignited by a flame from the stove. One line of hose was used to extinguish the blaze, operated by No. 5 fire hall under direction of District Chief T. Harvey.

Accused Claims No Knowledge Of Fatal Blaze

KENORA, Ont., Oct. 3.—(CP)—Patrick L. Kiely, 36, on trial for the murder of Gladys McAuley, Red Lake hotel waitress who was fatally burned in a fire which destroyed the three-storey frame building last July 1, took the stand in his own defence yesterday and said he did not remember how he got out of the hotel or of lighting a fire in the hotel stove.

His testimony concluded taking of evidence and the trial adjourned until today when arguments by counsel will be heard.

Kiely testified he went into the hotel beer parlor Saturday, June 30, when it opened and was there until about 6 p.m. He said he drank beer until I passed out. I don't remember how I got out of the hotel."

MORNING BLAZE

The fire broke out about one o'clock in the morning and caused a total of nine deaths.

In previous testimony Raymond Mailleux, 60-year-old hotel watchman said he saw Kiely come out of the beverage room at 12:50 a.m. and go to a stove where he set fire to some paper.

Mailleux said he went upstairs and punched two clocks on the top floor. On the way to the second floor he smelled smoke and when he reached the lobby it was full of smoke. He said he saw Kiely standing beside the registration counter in the office with flames running up the wall behind him.

David Bastien, a Red Lake district miner, said Miss McAuley was panic stricken when she heard the fire alarm and ran out of her room through fire to reach the fire escape.

C. R. Magone, crown prosecutor, said if the jury believed Mailleux' story they could come to the conclusion Kiely had set fire to the hotel and caused the death of Miss McAuley. If done with intent it would be murder, otherwise it constituted manslaughter.

Court Dismisses A. Mokrey Appeal

Appeal by Alex. Mokrey, Clover Bar, against the judgment of Judge J. Boyd McBride, awarding $397.80 to William Woywedka, Edmonton, was dismissed by the Alberta court of appeal in a judgment handed down recently.

Woywedka was awarded the $397.80 under the section of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations dealing with ceiling prices on used cars. The amount of the award represented the overcharge by Mokrey in the sale of a 1940 sedan.

It was contended by appellant's counsel that this section of the WTPB regulations was ultra vires because the regulation gave the governor-general-in-council power to provide criminal penalties. It was suggested this barred the right of civil recovery.

It was also contended that the respondent, also guilty of the offence of sales over ceiling, could not recover.

A further suggestion made to the court was that the transaction was an isolated one, and therefore did not come within the motor vehicle controller's jurisdiction to set a ceiling price.

F. Armour Ford, KC, represented the appellant.

Second Diphtheria Case Is Reported

Second case of diphtheria within two months was reported to the city health department during the week ended Sept. 29. The victim is a 20-year-old Calder district resident. She was seriously ill, but is now recovering, Dr. G. M. Little, medical officer of health, stated Tuesday.

Two other members of the family were found to be carriers of the diphtheria bacilli, neither contracted it as they had previously been immunized.

The incidence of communicable disease cases has been gradually increasing since school opening, and for the week ended Sept. 24, there was an increase of 21 compared with the week previous. The following is a tabulation of the cases reported.

Fine Is Reduced By District Court

Appeal by William Humen, Edmonton against a $2,000 fine imposed on him by Magistrate L. R. Jackson, KC, was successful in district court Tuesday when Chief Judge Lucien Dubuc reduced the fine from the $2,000 set by the magistrate to $750. He was convicted on a charge of illegally purchasing gasoline coupons.

Neil D. Maclean, KC, counsel for the appellant, submitted that his client was not the ringleader in the illegal sale of gasoline coupons, and that he had only one transaction with the group selling them. He pointed to the fact that Humen after his arrest had been held for 10 days by the police, and was not permitted to communicate with his solicitor.

Reducing the sentence, Judge Dubuc took into account that it was the appellant's first offence, and also the fact that he had been held in jail.

Father of Flier Dies in Hospital

An Edmonton RCAF officer Monday evening lost his race with time in his effort to return from India in time to visit his father in hospital.

Charles G. Emslie, MM, of 12408 112 avenue, died Monday in a local hospital following a lengthy illness. He was the father of F/O. Jack H. Emslie, stationed for the past year in India and enroute home following the cessation of hostilities in the far eastern war theatre.

Veteran of the First Great War, Mr. Emslie was 31 years old. A funeral service will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday from Andrews-McLaughlin funeral chapel by Dr. Murdoch McKinnon. Burial will be in Edmonton Cemetery.

In addition to his son in the RCAF, Mr. Emslie is survived by his wife, a second son, Donald, and a daughter, Jean, all at home; a brother, W. J. F. Emslie, Vancouver, and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Mandeville of Sullivan Station, B.C., and Mrs. George Clarke of Edmonton.

Brig. Ziegler Speaks Before War Veterans

The Canadian Corps Association, meeting in the Masonic Temple Tuesday night, heard Brig.-W. S. Ziegler, DSO, CBE, as guest speaker. Chairman of the meeting was A. B. Adamson.

Brig. Ziegler spoke of the situation in Holland after the capitulation of Germany up to the time he left for home. He gave a few hints as to treatment for returning veterans, suggesting that civilians should not be afraid to speak to the boys and that they should ask questions to show they are interested in what the veterans have done.

Brig. Ziegler was introduced by Bruce Massie, who described the speaker's career in the army.

New members announced at the meeting were J. Harper Prowse, M.LA., Leonard W. Bennett and James McPherson. A former member who has just returned from overseas, Flt. Lt. Gordon Ockenden, was welcomed back.

A musical program arranged by George Harrison was presented during the evening. Included on the program were Miss Norma Madill, contralto, a quartet of American army men, Verle Allred, Bob Cassidy, Jack Gurganus and Cecil Kincer; Mat Gilmore, vocalist; and the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion, The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, band, under the leadership of Ted Lindsday.

The next association meeting will be "ladies' night."

Let the Flags Fly

Hang out the flags and fly the banners high. Edmonton's own military formations, the men who carried the name of Edmonton across the Atlantic, through Sicily and Italy, across the beaches of Normandy, and along the cobbled roads of France, Belgium, Holland and Germany, are coming home.

When they left Edmonton nearly six years ago military security made it imperative that they leave almost secretly. There was no big parade, no waving flags or cheering people. For the most part they left at night, under cover of darkness, with few to wave them on their way.

But now the need of secrecy is past. With new battle honors emblazoned on their regimental colors and new glories to their names they are returning as conquerors who faced and fought to a standstill the best the Axis could bring against them. They went away for the most part untried citizen soldiers; they return battle-hardened veterans who have shown the world that Canadians need take no second place to soldiers of any country. They made their reputation the hard way, and it is a reputation that will endure for all time.

Not all the men who left Edmonton in the dark days between 1939 and 1945 will return. There are gaps in the ranks. There are some who will never return, and there are others who will come back only shattered remnants of the men who marched away when their country called, and who offered freely all they had to offer—their lives.

It is fitting that the flags should fly and that the citizens of Edmonton should honor those now returning with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment and those other units which are returning under their own military formations. No honor can be too great for these men, but they themselves would be the first to draw attention to the fact that there were many others who left Edmonton to do their part in the great war for freedom who are not coming back as unified bodies, but returning singly, or in small groups, to again take their places in civil life.

The welcoming celebrations of the next few days are for units who have had the good fortune to come home in their own formations, but it is good to note that the city council is not forgetting the others, and that some time in the future, when the majority of those who left Edmonton to serve the Empire are back, it is proposed to hold one big Welcome Home Day at which all veterans, whether they be of the Navy, the Army, the Air Force, men and women alike, and men of the Merchant Navy and the Fire Fighting and ARP services, will be honored.

But pending that day there should be no lack of warmth in the welcome given the men returning now. It is fitting that the flags should fly, that civic and government officials should let them know that their loyalty and sacrifices have been appreciated and that Edmonton gives them a warm-hearted and sincere welcome home. Let the flags fly high.

The Trip to Europe

It can be taken that Prime Minister King is not going overseas in the middle of an important parliamentary session just to pay a complimentary call on Prime Minister Attlee, nor to satisfy any morbid desire to view the unhappy scene in continental Europe at close range. Why he is going has not been announced, but will appear in due course. Some matter or matters of outstanding importance to Canada must be assumed to make the journey advisable.

One newspaper suggests Mr. King may have regretted when it was too late that he did not send some one to London while the Council of Foreign Ministers was meeting there, as Mr. Attlee proposed. This at least serves one purpose; it recalls the fact that Canada had no right to representation at the conference, was not invited to attend, and could not have been asked.

The Potsdam directive instructed the Council to take up at the session now closing the questions of peace treaties with Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland; and in each case to call in for consultation representatives of such nations as were directly interested. Canada, three thousand miles or more away, is not directly interested in the details of settlement with any of these former enemy states—though concerned in the general terms underlying all the settlements.

The Dominion could not therefore have been properly invited to send a delegate to the conference. All a Canadian representative could have done would be to hang around the corridors with the correspondents and pick up whatever rumors leaked out of the barred chamber. Neither Mr. King nor anyone else will suffer any regrets that Ottawa did not designate some person to play the bootless and undignified role of eaves-dropper outside the locked door.

One guess being as good as another, it may be surmised that the Prime Minister wants to talk with Mr. Attlee, and take a look at continental Europe, with the idea of getting a slant on the chances for trade.

Believe it or not, the experts and statistics-calculators say that in a year or two there will be too much rubber. The Japs, it seems, did not chop down the trees when they over-ran the South Pacific territories, and left most of the plantations untapped. Now the trees are producing away above average. Meanwhile in Canada and the United States synthetic plants have gone into operation which turn out the ersatz kind in bettering quality and increasing quantity.

This, it is said, adds up to a probability that about three years from now the combined natural and artificial output per year will be around 2,800,000 tons. That is twice the amount the world is using in 1945, for military and civilian needs.

Things may not be as bad, however, as this seems to predict. No commodity is more adjustable than rubber, and none has in so short a time come to be employed for a wider variety of purposes, in industry and in the home. Perhaps the inventor will beat the surplus, by devising new ways to use the over-supply, before it arrives.

That is to be hoped. Because a glut of rubber would spread ruin far and wide, trade and leave millions of people idle in territories which Japan over-ran easily with a promise of prosperity. The United Nations could not afford to allow that to happen. They would have to do something about it —perhaps slow down the synthetic plants.

British railways do not have many wrecks. But when one occurs there the casualties are usually high, because the trains run fast and are heavily loaded. The accident at Bourne End is the worst in five years.

The seed grain dispute between the Dominion and the province of Saskatchewan has been settled. Since it is ended, no public purpose is to be served by post mortem discussion of the issue. Quite the contrary. Such federal-provincial quarrels do nothing to strengthen the sense of national unity nor to help get the country back onto the peacetime basis. In both respects the effect is positive and harmful.

At London the ban has been lifted on sending business communications to Hungary, but trade is still forbidden. Britishers can write letters to firms in Budapest, but they must not ship any goods to them nor buy any from them. If this sounds ridiculous, it isn't really. Trade cannot start until broken business connections are restored and new ones established. These arrangements can now be made in advance of the signing of a peace treaty and the lifting of the trade barrier.

Should Use Banff

Editor, Bulletin: The Saskatchewan government has just appointed a Royal Commision to "study the medical and commercial possibilities of Little Manitou Lake."

I suggest that the public in Alberta wire the provincial government to make a similar survey of the health of Banff and vicinity. Such a survey would tie in with whatever application the Alberta government decides to make to the Federal Government for the application of funds for the provision of a hospital especially for the treatment of arthritis.

Canada should put herself on the map of the world as having the most beautiful vacation for spas. In this Banff is paramount.

Live or Die Together

Editor, Bulletin: One thing the atomic bomb should have taught us is the vital need to cut out all causes of war. For one thing we must about face in regard to foreign trade; it must no longer be carried out in a cut throat competition among the nations whose interest it is to export must get together and so regulate exports that they will meet the demands of those countries whose existence depends on their imports.

For instance countries like the British Isles, Belgium, Holland and other countries with a large population confined to a restricted area are compelled to import even though they are large exporters. Denmark could not survive on cheese, butter and pork alone. She like all other countries must have a balanced ration, and so like other countries, must import. If they cannot import then the whole industrial life of their people must change to the production of life's other necessities.

This is not just as easy as it might sound. Certain climates and surroundings are favorable to certain lines of production. These lines have been developed to the extent that it would be difficult to change over. Again certain monopolies will have to loosen their grasp or other countries will suffer the same experience Canada did in regard to sugar. We are suffering from a sugar shortage that might have been alleviated to some extent if another beet sugar factory had been built in Southern Alberta. But the sugar monopoly whispered "No" and so we continue to be short on sugar.

If we are going to avoid war and escape the atomic bomb we must watch our step. There must be no monopolies to dictate to any country; exporting countries must pass in the interests of peace before branching out in a mad race for trade. These questions are just a sample of the breeders of war. The main question is will we live together in harmony or die together in war.

Old Fashioned

Editor, Bulletin: I was one of the girls who following World War I helped our returned boys to settle back to normal life, having had four brothers over there, three of whom returned, along with several other young men, to our small town.

The boys were restless just as they are now; so like some folks are doing these days, we just let them learn what they could come to be our home anytime and enjoy themselves. We would have music, sing songs, roll up the carpet and dance, and wind up the evening with a nice lunch; absolutely no liquor, and 90 per cent of our men nowadays just prefer women at their beer parties.

I understand our boys were on occasion issued a certain amount of liquor in the forces so we cannot expect them to quit their drinks too suddenly.

I will admit it has taken some of our old soldiers a long while to break the habit, but there is no excuse whatever for women drinking. I am a believer in the saying, The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.

So let's get busy; women are so important to getting the boys rehabilitated.

To the young girls at this time I say you can do much good if you only will. We must keep our standards high so we can be looked up to.

I have been following the letters in reply to Mr. Vaughan's opinion of our Canadian girls. My opinion is like Jane and all other countries, we still have some ladies left.

I agree our Canadian girls overdo the makeup problem, my daughter included; but if a little makeup improves one's appearance I say wear a little.

Mr. Vaughan's wife probably does not require any, and on the other hand she may wear it and he is not even conscious of it. However, I can see he is very proud of his wife and deserves to appreciate a lady. We need more men like him to keep women in their place. Twenty-five years ago it was the reverse.

We appreciate what Mr. Vaughan has done for us and we congratulate him and his wife. May their happiness continue always.

Practical Means

Editor, Bulletin: From talks I have had with men returning to civilian life from the forces, I am convinced that a considerable number are desirous of taking on the responsibilities of home ownership. But all are confronted with the financial problem. All are desirous of living in a practical home with their wives and/or wives and/or families. To meet their requirements I submit the following plan:

If a lender were to build good practical homes than it is to create bad accommodation and potential slums, especially when it takes more man hours to erect a potential slum suite than it does to build a good house.

How is this to be done? First the finance department in Ottawa sets aside from income tax on 2,000,000 incomes an amount equal to 50c per income per month or a gratuited basis, equals $1,000,000 per month. The Bank of Canada issues $1,000,000 per month of money; $2,000,000 per month, $24,000,000 per year; 24 cities in Canada, each receive $4,000 each; 250 houses per city per year.

I am using round figures, but it is possible that the average cost may be $4,500 per house, but in any case, the tax ratio and the Bank of Canada loan would be the same, 50-50.

When the house is completed, the home owning veteran takes possession. He is assessed the full municipal taxation: estimated average $100 per year. He carries full fire insurance on the sum $4,000. He pays off the amount of the Bank of Canada loan, plus a small carrying charge, about 1% per cent over a period of 20 years at $101 per year. Cost per year to owner $210. Total cost to owner $4,200. During this time he lives in the house for 20 years and if well taken care of should be almost as good as new. So that actually he pays $2,500 for a $4,000 house, and the Bank of Canada is fully repaid. The remainder is a tax collected from Canadian incomes, and all pay this on a graduated scale according to income. The national government to carry administration charges (which need not be high) out of general revenue.

This would be the veteran's home comfortably. His credits could be used for furniture and other necessities, and the one home ownership would be within his ability to pay. The cities would be better off and the people of Canada would be delivering to the returned man something substantial for services rendered. The money spent would circulate in trade channels and no one would be hurt; all would be better off. After servicemen had been taken care of the plan could be extended to others, such as newly married couples. In 20 years Canada could be the best housed nation on earth and without a dollar of debt.

I may say I have questioned many people to find out in case the Finance Dept. could not squeeze the amount of present taxation if they would be willing to give up an average of 50c extra to their present tax for such a purpose and they have all said they would, if they knew it was to be used for this purpose. What do you think? Think it over, let us know.

Cordon Sanitaire in Reverse

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER

When Soviet writers start shouting against a western European "cordon sanitaire" allegedly being erected against a communist fatherland, it is time for democrats to laugh. For the energy expended between the two wars in keeping Soviet influence out of Europe was as nothing compared with the Fascist efforts to keep "bourgeois" influence out of the Soviet Union.

It was the communists who chiefly feared contact—not the bourgeois. In 1939 Polish refusal to permit Soviet armies to assist them on Polish soil was taken as evidence of Polish sympathy for fascism. But even in the darkest days of 1942, when Russia's chances looked pretty slim, Moscow stubbornly refused to permit American airmen to deliver Russian planes to American bombers for Russian use. Soviet flyers were sent to pick up these planes at Fairbanks, Alaska. Was this fascism, too?

This Soviet attitude persists today. While squawking loudly against any bloc that would exclude Russia, the Soviet leaders and their foreign instruments are busy as beavers erecting an eastern European cordon sanitaire in reverse.

This is probably at the bottom of the Soviet insistence on creating "friendly" governments along Russia's western borders.

Strategical protection of all the Russians gave another aggression by land justifiably fears is not the list of Soviet aims. People whose country has just been ravaged by the vilest sort of invasion easily aspire to the shelter of a contiguous ribbon of friendly countries. Russian naval and air bases are available to the Red forces.

Nonetheless we should not take too seriously the explanation that Soviet domination of the countries from the Baltic to the Aegean is purely a matter of strategical defense. Moscow has other motives.

One minor motive is "Slavic solidarity"—something the Soviets invite you not to confuse with the "imperialist" Pan-Slavism of the czars. Unquestionably the European Slavs, even the Poles, have a feeling of racial communion that no amount of Hitler propaganda could create among the so-called "Nordics."

Another advantage is the multiplication of puppet states whose votes will swell the Soviet influence at international gatherings. None who watched the Russians unashamedly giving orders to Slavic delegations at San Francisco will forget that in the coming world the Soviet Union counts on ten votes to the United Nations Organization—three of its own, and seven satellites.

Yet the basic motive for maintaining the heavy Soviet hand on Eastern Europe is probably psychological security. The Soviet rulers fear foreign doctrines and shun too close scrutiny by outsiders. They expend an immense effort in protecting their peoples from "dangerous" occidental thoughts.

One method is to keep the foreigners out—or limit them to a handful who may be constantly watched and kept away from the inhabitants. Another way is to keep the Russians in. Soviet citizens who have spent much time abroad — students, for instance — are at home subject to perpetual scrutiny and suspicion. No American Rotarian ever talked so loudly of domestic achievements or so systematically disparaged foreign efforts as these Russian "internationalists".

In Soviet eyes the erection of a "quarantine zone" in eastern Europe is an added guarantee against "liberal" contagion.

When Comrade Tito punishes Yugoslaves for looking to London and Washington rather than to Moscow for inspiration, he is seeking to protect his Soviet mentors as well as his own regime.

There is nothing mysterious about this. International communism began as a conspiracy and considerable conspiratorial mentality has remained in the communist citadel. Unhappily, under present circumstances, a communist quarantine in eastern Europe is a challenge to world peace.

It divides the planet into rival "spheres of influence". A Soviet bloc in eastern Europe will inexorably produce a non-Soviet bloc in western Europe. How can the Soviets decently expect to exert influence in the Mediterranean if they put up a "keep off" sign over a large section of the world?

The atomic age demands something different. It demands not the atomization but the unification of the planet. The Soviet Union is indispensable wherever world decisions are to be made. But so are the other major countries. The atomic age calls for something more. It calls for real confidence among peoples. Where there is secrecy, the fear of attack will remain. So long as fear of attack remains, no proposal to entrust the knowledge and possible use of the atomic bomb exclusively to an International Administration will be sincerely accepted by any country.

Those who are insisting the Soviet Union should play a major part in important political decisions everywhere have the duty to demand that our Soviet ally drop all notion of a cordon sanitaire in reverse. For while it exists, peace will be precarious.

Making The Most of Your Meat

Proper Cookery Is the Most Important; Two Methods Fully Discussed

By MARY ALICE DUAYNE

From one of our neighbor homes these suggestions about meat cookery.

There are five ways to make the most of your meat rations, and one of the most important is proper cookery. Many a good cut has been spoiled by the wrong cooking method.

The second is almost as important, and it is proper storage. Fresh meat should be stored tightly wrapped in the coldest part of the ice box. Ground meat should be used promptly, for it spoils quickly. Cooked meat should be cooled completely, then stored, tightly covered, in the least cold part of the ice box.

The third is to stretch the flavor. To some—that might sound impossible. But when you consider meat flavors, patties, casseroles, stews and meat pies, these make much out of a little meat.

Fourth is the thrifty use of left-overs. Don't give the bone to the dog until you have made soup and the sandwich fillings. Don't chop suey, and other dishes make left-over meats into feature dishes.

The fourth way to make the most of your meat ration is to use substitutes. Egg production is excellent in Canada, and this food substitutes in part for meat nutrition. Use a variety of egg dishes frequently. Serve cheese dishes occasionally. Be thrifty with fish when it is available supplies and prices allow.

Now let's consider the main methods of cooking meats.

There are two methods—by moist heat and by dry heat, according to the experts of the National Livestock and Meat Board of Chicago. They have spent many years perfecting the correct cooking methods for every kind of meat.

There are two "types" of meats. Those which come from the part of the animal's carcass which receives the least exercise are the tender cuts. Those which come from the part which receives the greatest exercise are the less-tender cuts.

Tender cuts are cooked by dry heat.

Less-tender cuts are cooked by moist heat.

There are three methods of dry heat cookery.

The first is oven roasting. Roasts cooked at high heat lose as much as 40 to 60 percent of actual weight as compared to roasts cooked at low heat, where the loss should be no more than 15 to 20 per cent. Moderately slow, which is 325 degrees, or slow roasting, 300 degrees, are the two temperatures now recommended for the cooking of all roasts. Pre-heating oven for is any water in the pan required.

The second method of dry heat cookery is broiling. A moderate temperature of 350 degrees is now considered entirely satisfactory for any oven broiling. Time required depends upon individual meat and cut, and degree of "doneness" desired.

The third method of dry heat cookery is pan broiling. Use a heavy frying pan and preheat until very hot. Add no fat and no extra fat, no water and no cover. Brown meat on both sides in the hot pan, reduce heat and finish cooking to the desired degree of "doneness."

There are three methods of moist heat cookery too.

The first is braising—which means browning the meat in a small amount of fat, then adding a small amount of liquid, season and cover the pan or pot and cook at a low heat on top of the stove, or cook in a slow oven for the required time. Pot roasting is a form of braising. So also is a fricassee, and meats cooked en casserole. Braising is easy, and results in a moist, delicious meat dish. Many cuts of meat are cooked by braising as you will see on the meat coupon charts.

Stewing is the second method of most meat cookery. The meat is cut into cubes, browned in hot fat, seasoned, covered with boiling liquid, such as water, tomato juice or other vegetable juice. The pot is covered tightly, heat turned to low, and cooked for a long time until done, depending upon the meat. Vegetables are often added about 45 minutes before meat is tender.

Water cooking is the third method. The meat is placed in a deep pot, covered completely with water, and cooked only at a simmer, which is below boiling. Soup hearts, tongues are some cuts cooked by this method.

Finally our experts give us some advice about cooking sausages. Smoked sausages, such as wieners, and cooked sausages, merely require re-heating, and should be done by simmering in water.

Fresh meat sausages require complete cooking, and are cooked by a method which does not apply to other cuts of beef. Place in a cold frying pan, and add boiling water in the proportion of less than half the amount of the sausage. Use just enough to half cover them. Cover pan, bring to the boil and let simmer gently for about 5 to 8 minutes. Drain off all liquid and return to top of stove and finish cooking in dry pan, turning frequently, to brown all over.

Unnecessary Deaths

From THE OTTAWA JOURNAL

In Ottawa last year six children were attacked by diphtheria and one of them died. This year, to the present date, 18 children have been struck down, and one has died. Four of this year's cases were in one block. All 13 cases were in the age group of one to 15 years. This is significant—but one of the children had been given the toxoid treatment for immunity against the disease.

For Canada we have no figures covering the present year, but 1944 showed that diphtheria once more was on the march. For the whole country there were 311 deaths from diphtheria last year, as against 281 in 1943—and it was the largest total since 1939. These fatalities came from 2,222 cases, the highest total since 1932.

The record of fatalities by Provinces, as assembled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, is worth some attention. Little Prince Edward Island, which had one death from diphtheria in the six-year period 1935 to 1940, last year had 13 deaths. Had this shocking situation been nation-wide, the total for Canada would have been about 1,600 instead of 311. On the other hand, British Columbia, with 10 times the population of Prince Edward Island, had only one death from diphtheria last year. Had B.C. standards for immunization prevailed the national total would have been about 34 instead of 311.

In between P.E.I. and B.C. comes Alberta with five deaths; Ontario with 18; Manitoba with 26; Saskatchewan with 16. Nova Scotia with 26. New Brunswick with 21 and Quebec with a disgraceful 191. That is to say, Quebec, with less than one-third of the population, had nearly two-thirds of the diphtheria fatalities. Ontario, with 32.92 per cent of the population (on the census of 1941) had 18 deaths. Quebec, with 28.96 of the people, had 191. There was about 12 times as much danger of a child dying of diphtheria in Quebec as in Ontario—the difference being that immunization is practised in Ontario with greater zeal and thoroughness.

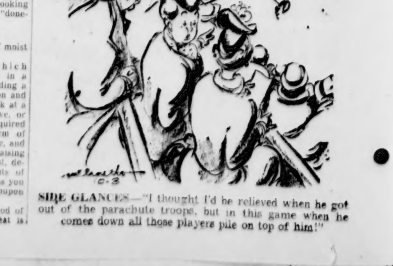

The pity of it is that all these deaths are unnecessary. Diphtheria can be made as rare as smallpox if only the knowledge we possess. The toxoid treatment is simple and harmless. Ottawa has clinics where such operate all year, with doctors and nurses regularly in attendance, where children may receive not only this simple safeguard but medicine but may be vaccinated against smallpox and may receive the treatment which prevents whooping cough in 80 per cent of individuals.

Diphtheria, as our local records show, does not respect convenience of parents. Extremely few parents are hostile to the idea of immunity, but too often they are indifferent or negligent and indifference, neglect, delay can be deadly. What's the use of having this done? asks the parent. Then there is so little diphtheria?" Diphtheria has been reduced simply because a great many parents have been immunized—there is less diphtheria because fewer children are capable of taking it.

The diphtheria chart is automatic. Those provinces and cities which are zealous in a continuous program of immunization show immediate benefits in the prevention of illness and death. Provinces and cities which show less zeal, do little to educate their parents in the life-saving qualities of toxoid, which worry about the cost of free clinics, have such shameful records as those of Quebec and Prince Edward Island.

Chicago Futures Prices Hit Skids

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP) — Grain futures prices hit the skids today after a long upturn which had been carrying wheat and rye to new seasonal highs almost daily. Selling carried wheat and oats down around a cent a bushel at times and rye more than a cent.

There was no outstanding bearish news, but traders were disturbed by an unconfirmed report that a large elevator interest had bought from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 bushels of cash wheat at Minneapolis. They speculated that this might be for delivery on December futures contracts here.

Wheat closed ⅞ to 1⅜ cent lower, corn was down ⅛ to ¼, oats lost ⅝ to 1⅛, rye was 1¼ to 2⅛ cents lower, and barley was down ¼ to ⅝.

Grain close—Wheat: Dec. $1.73½-⅝, May $1.71¼-⅜, July $1.64-$1.64⅛, Sept. $1.62¼. Corn: Dec. $1.16⅞, May $1.16⅝, July $1.14¾. Oats: Dec. 65-64⅞, May 65⅛-¾, July 62¾-⅞, Sept. 61½. Rye: Dec. $1.52¾-⅝, May $1.45-$1.45⅛, July $1.36¼, Sept. $1.30¾. Barley: Dec. $1.14⅝, May $1.14¼.

Great Britain Might Replace Crack CPR Liner

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(CP)—The London Daily Mail said today that a new Empress of Britain may be built and presented to either the Canadian Pacific steamship Company or to the Dominion government "as a tribute from the people of Britain to the Dominion's service to the empire during the war."

The Empress of Britain was a 42,500-ton Canadian Pacific liner built on the Clyde and sunk in October, 1940.

Without giving any identification, the newspaper said "empire-minded men" here were planning a fund to replace the Empress and that this news had been sent to D. C. Coleman, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and steamships companies.

Egg receipts as reported by registered stations show a decrease of 10 per cent. from the preceding week. General quality of arrivals is gradually improving, with percentage of Grade A for the past week 58 per cent. as against 51 per cent last week. At the present time there is a surplus of grade A eggs over and above local requirements, and all surplus grade A large and grade A medium are moving through the Special Products Board for export. There is a surplus of grade a pullets on the market at the present time. However, with the export movement of grade A large and grade A medium this surplus is expected to move more readily through retail channels. One carlot of mixed grade A large and grade A medium rolled to seaboard for export during the week and at least one additional car is due to roll tomorrow. In addition three carlots of shell export out of storage were inspected for shipment overseas. Two lots of grade B moved to the drying plant, with additional nine carlots withdrawn from long term storage for the same channel. Dealers' quotations to country shippers remain unchanged except for a reduction of 6c per dozen for grade A pullets.

POULTRY PRICES

Receipts of live poultry for the week show a decrease of 7 per cent. from last week. This decrease is attributed to adverse weather conditions. The dressed poultry market is rather inactive, with the only movement reported being one carlot of frozen poultry exported to the United States. Quotations for both live and dressed poultry remain unchanged.

Byrnes Trying Salvage Wreck Big Five Parley

By EDWARD V. ROBERTS

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Oct. 3. — (BUP)— Secretary of State James F. Byrnes left by plane for the United States today after revealing that he was attempting to salvage the wreckage of the Big Five conference with a compromise formula for drafting Balkan peace treaties.

Byrnes told a press conference that Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov had agreed in principle to the compromise, but had to consult the Kremlin before giving his final word. Britain accepted the plan.

Molotov and other members of the Russian delegation left for Moscow by air. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Shihchieh also were expected to leave for their homelands during the day.

U.S. PROPOSAL

The American proposal calls for the United States, Russia and Britain to draft the European peace treaties and then submit them for consideration to peace conferences of all nations which contributed to the Allied victory.

Byrnes said he believed France and China—the other two participants in the foreign ministers' conference — would accept the compromise. Russia had stymied the conference by adamantly demanding that the Big Three dictate the peace treaties without giving France or China even an eventual voice in the terms.

Molotov himself at a press conference an hour later indicated a strong possibility that Russia would accept the American compromise plan.

CONTRADICTS BYRNES

At the same time, he contradicted Byrnes' statement that Russia had agreed with the other four powers on the opening day of the foreign ministers' conference Sept. 11, that all five should participate in peace treaty discussions.

Byrnes had told newsmen that the "Soviet representative" at the conference on Sept. 22 suddenly reported that "he believed he had made a mistake when he agreed" to five-power action and wished to revoke it.

Molotov apparently was resting his case on the technicality that there had been no decisions at the conference because none had been put in writing and signed by the participating powers.

He hinted at acceptance of the American compromise formula, however, by saying that the Big Three were "unquestionably bound" to convoke an international conference of interested states after writing peace treaties.

White to Build Million-Dollar Montreal Plant

Ground has been broken for a new million-dollar plant for the manufacture of White motor trucks and busses in Montreal, according to announcement by L. M. Hart, Jr., vice-president of the White Motor Company of Canada, Ltd. The site comprises a 10-acre tract on Decarie blvd., adjoining the new plant of Canada Dry, Ltd.

The new manufacturing plant will be of the most modern type, fully equipped with the latest in tools, machinery and fixtures. Plans call for a two-storey office structure and a one-floor factory building, both of modern brick and reinforced concrete construction, providing 130,000 square feet of usable floor space. Component parts for both trucks and busses, as well as complete vehicles, will be produced for Canada and also for export markets throughout the British Empire.

NEED RECOGNIZED

"White has recognized the need for complete manufacturing facilities in Canada for many years," Mr. Hart said. "In fact, plans to provide them were well along when they were interrupted by the start of the war. We feel that now is the time to go ahead—both for the effect it will have in helping to provide employment now, at the start of the reconverson period, and because it will enable us to meet the expanding needs of motor transportation users in Canada.

"The White Company in Canada has pioneered in meeting the transportation needs of industries of all kinds since the turn of the century, and the demand for their type of heavy-duty vehicle has grown steadily. In order to meet this growing need with the finest kind of service, the White organization is expanding its facilities now.

"Since motor transportation is used in practically every line of business and industry, we are confident that the demand for trucks and busses will continue to grow as industrial activity here gets into its full peacetime stride," Mr. Hart said.

SEVERAL BRANCHES

White trucks and busses have been partially built in Canada ever since the earliest days of the automotive industry. For many years the company's Canadian headquarters have been at 5225 DeGaspe street, Montreal, with branches at Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Calgary and with dealers located in principal cities throughout the Dominion. Local service facilities at all of these points, and several new ones, will be enlarged and improved as a result of the company's new production facilities, Mr. Hart said.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

IT LOOKS as if Coach Joe Brown will have his 1944-45 juniors almost intact for the current season, as only one regular was missing when the South Siders held their first practice session at the Arena on Tuesday. Defenceman Jack Gosling was the only absentee last night.

Defencemen Dave Ellis and forwards Don Robertson, Bill Stollery, Bill Case, Hugh McDonald, Bob Hall, Johnny Christenson, Frankie Lappin, Tommy Nuttall, George Ego, Don McCombie and Carmie Anderson, all of whom played last year, were on hand for the opening drill.

Also at Tuesday's workout were Harvey Silzer, prolific goal producer for the juveniles; Don Emberg, Stan Johnson, Bliss Campbell, Walter Budzinski, Harvey Dodds, Moe Widerspiel, Bob Jackson, Roy Farrar (Turner Valley) and Vince Tedeschini (Innisfail).

With the advantage of a full year's experience, South Siders, although still a young team, should give a good account of themselves in the league this season. Monty Ford is trainer and of course Bob Armstrong was helping out last night too.

ONE IN SIX TO TIGERS

ADMIRERS of the Tigers who back their choice with good coin, evidently don't believe in past performances, for the record of the Detroiters in the annual baseball classic is far from impressive.

Tigers have become embroiled in World Series affairs six times so far, with only one entry on the credit side of the ledger. But the current series at least gives them the opportunity to square accounts with the Cubs, who have beaten them twice in three sessions.

Detroit, with Bill Jennings at the helm, won the American League pennant three times in a row (1907-8-9) and lost to the National League entry, Chicago shut out the Tigers 9-0 in '07 and came right back the following year with a 4-1 count. Pittsburgh made it three straight for the Nationals in taking a 4-3 decision in 1909.

St. Louis Cardinals stopped the Tigers 4-2 in 1934, but the Bengals bounced back with a 4-2 verdict in '35. Detroit reached baseball's final round again in 1940, only to be turned back by Cincinnati, 4-3.

CONNIE MACK FOUND GRIMM

GRIMM'S first job in baseball was that of a peanut vendor in St. Louis Sportsman's Park. Connie Mack discovered him and sent him to Durham of the Carolina League. The Cards grabbed him in '18, bit sold him to Pittsburgh the following year. After five full seasons with the Pirates, Charles moved on to Chicago.

Outfielder Ray Cullenbine is one from whom big things are expected in the current series. Lefty Ray Prim, the Cubs' 13-game winner, pitched against Greenberg 14 years ago when both were rookies in the Piedmont League.

Peanuts Lowery is one of the seasons Chicago won the National pennant. His hitting really put the Cubs on top and his timely base knocks have helped keep them there. The "Peanuts" title has nothing to do with his size—an uncle having given him the name the day he was born and it stuck.

Claims Nobody Wants Break Up Series Opponents

By WHITNEY MARTIN

DETROIT, Oct. 3—(AP)—One thing we are pretty sure of after hustling around this hustling city for a couple of days: after the world series starting today there will be no cries of "break up the Tigers" or "break up the Cubs".

In fact, you gather there is at least a scattered opinion the Cubs are pretty well broken down and ready, and that's a difference only in the direction of the break.

This idea is put forth by the many citizens who have seen only the Tigers, probably on off days, are picking the Cubs on the theory the Cubs couldn't be quite that bad, and vice versa. With them it's just a question of not knowing what they want, but knowing definitely what they don't want.

Anyway, the situation adds up to the prospect of a fine series from a competitive standpoint, which is the important thing. And the fans aren't going to see a collection of 10-thumbed jitterbugs out there with the galloping heebie-jeebies. The boys have been through the mill this season and each club had its dress rehearsal in games with the pennants at stake.

"We'll be the most relaxed club ever to enter a series," Steve O'Neill said of his Tigers Tuesday. "We were in first place 110 days and sometimes by only half a game. The boys are so accustomed to tension a world series will be nothing new to them."

It isn't to be gathered the Tigers are so relaxed they're practically limp and ready to be tossed around. As Steve says, the club, which he rates about on a par with his last year's team, believes in itself and won't be stampeded by the size of the stakes.

Fighter Arrested For Manslaughter

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 2—(AP)—Andy Hetlin, 18-year-old Taylor, Pa., middleweight, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter following the death of Johnny Dezinski, 32, Plains, Pa. Hetlin was under $1,000 bail for grand jury action.

Hetlin knocked out Dezinski Monday night in the fourth round of a boxing match. Dr. Paul Kubasko, Lackawanna County coroner, said Dezinski's head struck the ring floor and the boxer lost consciousness. Dezinski died in hospital early Tuesday.

"Option" Seat Sale

Edmonton Exhibition Flyers Name of Senior Hockey Team

EDMONTON Exhibition Flyers is the name of the capital city entry in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League, it was announced Tuesday night by L. A. (Lefty) Grove, chairman, following a meeting of the Fair Board's hockey committee.

The seat option plan, something new for Edmonton fans, will be introduced this year, Ald. H. G. Ainlay and L. A. Paterson have been named a committee to handle the project, and the Recreation Commission and Service Clubs will be approached with a view to having them co-operate.

Under the scheme, which has worked successfully in Calgary for several years, ticket purchasers will pay a deposit on the seats desired prior to the opening of the season.

As each game comes along the regular customer lifts his ticket, thus always being assured of a reserved seat throughout the entire schedule. The option money pays for the last two games.

Several former Edmonton players attended an informal workout at the Arena on Tuesday evening. Alex Pringle, Walter "Dutchie" "Sonny" Barchyn and Russ Kiesko, all former Maple Leaf juniors were out.

Joe Brown, coach of the South Side juniors and a member of the Flyers, last senior club to operate here prior to Arena being taken over by the RCAF, also attended. Ken Cox, ex-Canadian junior centre, just out of the Navy, and Mike Petasky, Wetaskiwin, were included in the list.

Elvin Ken McAuley, goalie for New York Rangers for the past two seasons and who expects to leave for the Ranger school in Winnipeg in a day or so, couldn't resist the opportunity to turn aside a few pucks.

Stan Devieq and Bud Patry, also former Maple Leafs are expected out for the next practice.

Manager-coach Riley Mullen leaves today for Regina where the Chicago Black Hawk school is running. He also will pay a visit to the Ranger school in Winnipeg before returning to Edmonton.

HOCKEY CHAIRMAN.—Tom Green, always a booster for boys' sports, is again chairman of hockey for South Side Athletic Association, whose juniors held their initial practice at the Arena on Tuesday night.

Winnipeg Sculler Wins For Canada

LONDON, Oct. 3—(CP Cable)—Capt. G. E. R. Aldous, M.C., of Winnipeg, scored a two-foot victory for Canada in the single gig sculls at the dominions' victory regatta held on the Thames Sept. 24. Thousands of Canadian spectators lined the short mile course from Teddington Lock to Kingston Rowing Club cheered, waved and threw their hats in the air as Aldous triumphed.

The Winnipegger and Sgt. W. J. Kelly of the British team rowed neck-and-neck almost to the tape when Aldous put on a spurt to win the nod. PO. H. MacDonald of New Zealand finished third.

Cubs' Pilot Making No Predictions

By GAYLE TALBOT

DETROIT, Oct. 3—(AP)—This baseball-frenzied city was jammed to the rafters with world series fans Tuesday as Detroit Tigers and Chicago Cubs went through their final limbering up for today's opening tussle of the seven-game championship set.

Not a hotel room was to be found by late arrivals, and two lake steamers being used as floating hostelries were similarly packed by the crowd that had flooded in to see the first peacetime series since 1941. Briggs Stadium, with its more than 55,000 seats, including some 14,000 bleachers, was certain to be a sell-out at game time, 11:30 p.m., M.S.T.

The rival managers, Steve O'Neill of the Tigers and Charlie Grimm of the Cubs, stood pat on their pitching choices for the opener. Hal Newhouser, Detroit's 25-game winner, was to face Hank Borowy, the $100,000 beauty who won 11 for the Cubs while losing two in the final two months of the National League race. He won 16 for the Yankees before the Cubs got him.

With Newhouser, a slim southpaw, prepared to bear down on the Cubs' left-handed hitting array of Phil Cavarretta, Stan Hack and Bill Nicholson, the Tigers remained 10-13 favorites to capture the series. The first three games will be played here, after which the clubs will jump overnight to Chicago to finish the set.

Borowy will have the important advantage of having pitched against American League champions for a number of years while he was with the Yanks. He knows their batting weaknesses, and Grimm has never wavered in his belief that the youthful-looking, mild-talking right-hander will get the Cubs off on the winning side. The Tigers, speaking privately, have expressed a lot of respect for Borowy's skill.

While O'Neill predicted flatly that his Tigers, who had to wait right up to the final day to sew up their flag, would capture the series by four games to two, Grimm preferred to let the Cubs' bats speak for themselves. Neither would he hesitate to name a night pitch the second game for him. O'Neill was on record that Stubby Overmire, another lefthander, would face the Cubs in the second bout if Newhouser should win the first.

Otherwise it would be Virgil Trucks, a right-hander, or Dizzy Trout, as Grimm's second-game nominee.

Series weather prospects were fairly promising. Although a chill wind blew Tuesday and a drizzle fell on the Tiger park while it worked out before noon, weather experts advised the sun would be out today and it would likely would be no colder than 60 degrees at game time.

Manager Grimm arrived at the park early yesterday swathed in an overcoat, and watched the Tigers go through a lengthy hitting and fielding drill. He and O'Neill congratulated each other on winning the pennants and posed for a battery of cameras.

Grimm at least pretended to be greatly impressed as he watched Eddie Mayo, Roy Cullenbine, Hank Greenberg and other Tigers slam a dozen balls into the stands.

"They sort of massage that ball, at that," he commented, "of course, we might show them a little better pitching tomorrow."

Practice Thursday For Maple Leafs

Maple Leaf Athletic Club's junior entry in the Edmonton Junior Hockey League will hold its first practice of the season on Thursday night at the Arena commencing at 9 o'clock. All last year's players and any new ones wishing a tryout are asked to be on hand in good time. All players will be welcomed.

AT FIRST WORKOUT.—Alex Pringle turned out for the first practice called for the Edmonton Exhibition Flyers at the Arena on Tuesday night. Prior to joining the RCAF in '41, Alex was a member of the Maple Leaf junior hockey squad.

Clarke Is Eager To Meet Wright Again Monday

Promoter Tommy Tasker officially announced last night that he is rematching Texas Jim Wright and "Dazzler" Jim Clarke at the Empire theatre next Monday night.

Clarke stayed over an extra day in Edmonton to make certain of getting another chance at the man who left him with a three-inch gash in his forehead by using everything the book says you shouldn't. "I tried to wrestle clean, but he took advantage of me right at the start. He might be tough but I can get just as tough as him by wrestling the same way he did the other night. That's the way it's going to be next time too," said Clarke yesterday.

All day Tuesday, Clarke, a professional football player besides being a big time grappler, spent most of his time visiting veteran patients in the Col. Mewburn pavillion at the University Hospital. He chatted with several of the patients and handed out ducats to them for next Monday's card.

The rest of the card will be announced in a day or two.

Canadian Airmen Capture Trophies Holland Tennis

LONDON, Oct. 3—(CP)—Canadian airmen carrying tennis rackets brought two trophies back with them from Hilversum, Holland.

As the RCAF tennis team they are proud possessors not only of the Canadian army forces team tennis championship but of the individual singles crown as well.

Teams from the RCAF, the Canadian army in England and the Canadian forces in the Netherlands competed. On a points system of scoring, the RCAF players amassed a total of eight points against five points garnered by each of the army teams.

Sgt. Don McDiarmid, young tennis star from Ottawa, plowed his way through to the singles final where he met Pte. C. M. Roughhead, Canadian forces Netherlands, from Coleman, Alta., and defeated him 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

The doubles championship went to the Canadian Army, England, team of Pte. G. H. Raper, Bridgeport, N.S., and Cpl. A. W. Anderson, Toronto. They defeated the RCAF pair—Flt. Lt. L. S. Beck, Toronto, and Flt. Lt. Phil Pearson, Vancouver. Canadian doubles champion and former Davis Cup player—by a score of 6-3, 6-1, 6-3 in a fast moving final match.

Writers Select Tigers Over Cubs

DETROIT, Oct. 3—(CP)—In one of the closest "votes" in the history of the annual Associated Press world series poll, baseball writers here for the 1945 classic Tuesday picked Detroit Tigers to whip Chicago Cubs in this year's set, with six games as the general guess as to how long it will go either way.

All told, 45 writers balked the American leaguers to finish on top, against 35 who named the Cubs. Twenty-four tabbed the Tigers in six games and 21 did the same for Chicago.

Patrick Promises Rangers Will Be Stronger This Year

WINNIPEG, Oct. 3—(CP)—Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, arrived in Winnipeg Tuesday with coach Frank Boucher and trainer Pat Westerby to complete arrangements for the 12th annual Ranger hockey school which will open this week.

Patrick moved into the same hotel room he occupied last year, sat down behind the same desk and immediately plunged into a pile of work in preparation for the training campaign and forthcoming NHL season.

Amateur players who have been invited to attend the hockey school are expected to begin filing in today and Patrick expects about 25 or 30 to show up. Exactly who will be on hand he wouldn't say. "I know who we've sent offers to," he said, "but won't know for sure who's coming until they get here."

The pros are due to pull in around Oct. 11 or 12 when the regular training season gets underway.

Regarding the news that Cpl. Edgar Laprade, Fort Arthur amateur hockey star, would be attending the Ranger camp, the silver fox declared the first definite word he had seen was the newspaper story. However, Laprade who is due to get six months leave of absence from the Canadian army to play hockey, had been asked to attend and will be a welcome addition to the Rangers.

As for other prospective Ranger players, Patrick said he was taking a "wait-and-see" attitude. He did admit, however, that this season's team would be considerably stronger than New York clubs of the past two years.

Today's Sport Parade

DETROIT, Oct. 3—(BUP)—Averages on paper are one thing, on the diamond they are another. But from what has happened so far this year in major league baseball it's the Chicago Cubs over the Detroit Tigers in hitting and fielding, just as it is in pitching.

But there is a big if attached—for if Roy Cullenbine, Hank Greenberg and Rudy York start hitting on all cylinders at the same time it well could be too bad for the Cubs. And it could be too bad for the Tigers, too, if big Bill (Swish) Nicholson should suddenly come into hitting form which, until this season, made him one of the most feared sluggers in the National League.

Giving clutch guys like Eddie Mayo and Paul Richards, who do a lot of second basing and catching for the Tigers, a sort of brush off, Detroit's power at the plate comes to Cullenbine, Greenberg and York. They are the guys who hit—if they connect—a long ball. They are the power boys of the 1945 American League Champions.

BETTER BALANCE

WHILE the National League champions have no three to match that "war-time" murderer's row, the Cubs present much heavier artillery from the top to the bottom of their batting order.

They have Stan Hack (.322) at third; Don Johnson (.300) at second; Peanuts Lowery (.282) in right field; Phil Cavarretta (.355) and the National League's 1945 batting champion, at first; Andy Pafko (.298) in centre, Nicholson (.245) or Hank Sauer (.267) in left; Mickey Livingston (.254) catching and Len Merullo (.231) at short. They present a much more formidable array than anything Steve O'Neill of the Tigers can throw against them.

He has Skeeter Webb (.198) or Joe Hoover (.257) at short; Mayo (.296) at second; Don Dramer in centre; Greenberg (.305) in left; Cullenbine (.272) in right; York (.272) at first; Jimmy Outlaw (.273) or Bobby Maier (.264) at third and Richards (.252) catching.

THE over-all average is not as healthy as that of the Cubs. However, one man on a hitting streak can make meaningless those averages of what they have done all year. That's why so far as hitting goes, the Cubs must be rated the edge.

In fielding, too, the Cubs, on what they have done in the National League this season as compared to what the Tigers did in the American, rate superior. Fielding is important of course, but it can become a pretty routine matter if fellows like Cullenbine, Greenberg and York hit 'em where they can't catch 'em. Of course, such Cubs as Hack, Johnson, Lowery, Cavarretta, Pafko and Nicholson can do that, too, but their chances of getting "hot" are not as good as those fellows like Cullenbine, Greenberg and York. Hankus the Pankus Greenberg not only hit the home run with the bases loaded that gave the Tigers the pennant, but he is the threat at bat who also could drive the ball out of the reach of any opposition fielder to win a ball game.

So despite the over-all advantage which the Cubs enjoy—on paper—the matter of hitting and fielding comes down to which ball players are hot on a given day. It could be the Cubs and it could be the Tigers. Time—and only seven or eight of it will tell.

Announce Mail Plan Released Prisoners

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Defence headquarters said yesterday arrangements have been made to provide a special mail service to liberated Canadian prisoners of war during their brief stay in a reception camp on the west coast while being prepared for the last leg of the journey home.

Once official advice has been received that a former prisoner is en route home friends and relatives should address mail thus:

Service Number, Rank, Name, Canadian Liberated P.W., Vancouver, M.P.O. 1106, B.C.

The department said it is recommended that mail addressed in this way be prepaid for air mail service so that it will reach the west coast without delay.

Where possible, mail would be delivered immediately the ship docks. If this was not possible, it would be delivered at reception camps.

Arrangements were being made whereby the men, while at the reception camp, may forward mail by air without charge to themselves.

First Star to Return

Spotlight on Hank Greenberg In 1945 Baseball Classic

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(BUP)—Hank Greenberg became baseball's guinea pig when he slipped back into a Detroit uniform on July 1st after four years in army khaki. Around the baseball circuit, the fans and players alike said:

"If Hank can come back at the age of 34, so can the rest of the players in the service.

The Detroit fans were more interested in whether Hank's return meant a pennant for the Tigers.

Both groups have had their answer.

Hank did come back. And he did win a pennant for the Tigers.

It's history now—but dramatic history—how Greenberg came up in the ninth inning Sunday against Saint Louis. The Browns were leading 3 to 2. Detroit needed that game, or the nightcap, to edge out Washington.

One man was out. The bases were loaded. And Greenberg at the plate. And good old Hank came through—he hit a grand-slam homer that won the game and the pennant for the Tigers.

It was a dramatic finish to a dramatic pennant race. And it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

In the seven years before Hank entered the army in 1941, he hit 246 homers, drove in more than one-thousand runs, and sported an over-all batting average of .325.

BIGGEST YEAR IN '40

Hank's bigg st year was in 1940 when he cracked 58 homers—just two shy of Babe Ruth's all-time mark. That kind of hitting made him the highest-paid player in baseball—$5 thousand dollars for a season's work.

He took a big cut the next season.

That was the year bob-nailed boots marched through the streets of Europe. There was talk of war in the Pacific. And America started to arm.

Hank was among the first called by the draft. His number came up early in 1941 but he was released two days before Pearl Harbor. And he promptly volunteered for more service when the Japs struck. Hank started to relearn this bigger game of waging war.

LEARNED THE HARD WAY

Hank learned the hard way — rising from a no-strike GI to a Captain. And unlike many other players, Hank didn't play ball in the service. He was a soldier's soldier—never afraid to risk his neck or tackle a dirty job.

When Greenberg came back to baseball this year—the first of the name players to return—the fans asked, "can he do it?" They knew his timing was rusty. And certainly, Hank wasn't any younger.

So they came out in droves when the big Jewish boy from New York went back into the Tiger lineup that Sunday afternoon on July 1st. Hank didn't look too sharp the first couple of times at the plate. But Briggs Stadium became a bedlam when he connected for a round-tripper near the end of the game.

For the next three weeks Hank did fairly well at the plate. On July 8th he came in as a pinch-hitter and singled over two runs to give Detroit a 9 to 8 win over Boston. Then came July 21st when he failed as a pinch-hitter.

From that day through August 3rd—a two-week stretch—Hank came up 36 times and hit safely only seven. That's less than a .200 average. And just wasn't the way Hank was used to performing.

BECAME "DISGUSTED"

It's reported that he became pretty disgusted, went to manager O'Neill and said: "Maybe I'm washed up, Steve."

But O'Neill knew better. He suggested that maybe Hank was trying for too many homers. And according to the grapevine, O'Neill advised Hank to shorten his swing, to quit trying for the fences.

Steve's advice must have been just what Hank needed. For he did "shortening up."

Hank started hitting the apple again, mixing a homer among the singles and doubles he started pounding out.

Then came the Sunday's blue-chip game with Saint Louis. Once again Hank didn't have his eye on the ball—at first. He was well on his way to becoming the goat of the game.

In the second he popped out to Schoffie. Hank forced Cramer at second base in the fourth. In the sixth he filed to Byrnes. Hank got a single in the eighth but bashed up the works when he overran third to become the second out when Detroit needed a run to tie.

Then came the ninth—and Hank's pennant winning homer.

Ordinary a manager likes to see his instructions followed. But We're willing to lay the odds Steve O'Neill is the happiest man in the land today because Hank Greenberg decided to try for the fence—instead of "shortening up."

430 Persons Attend Alta. Family Reunion

CARDSTON, Oct. 3.—(CP)—At a family reunion here last week 430 direct descendants of Thomas R. Leavitt, pioneer of this district, were present.

This included 21 men in the service, and the ten Baker sisters, all daughters of the oldest Leavitt daughter, who were together for the first time in 30 years.

Officers elected in the Leavitt organization were: President, J. L. Redford. Vice-presidents, Ruben Leavitt and Darax Leavitt; secretary-treasurer, Matthew Leavitt. It is hoped to make these reunions an annual affair.

More than $100 was collected for genealogy work. So far the line has been traced back to the 15th century.

STILL OTHERS

There are still members of the family in the service, others en route home from overseas, and six have been killed in this war.

Thomas R. Leavitt was born in Upper Canada and was raised in Utah. He came to Alberta in 1887, homesteading east of Cardston. He married three times, was father to 26 children, 25 of whom made their homes in Cardston and district.

He built the first home in the town, then helped Ora Card, founder of Cardston, erect his. The town of Leavitt is named after him.

Hansell Hits Soviet Stand World Affairs

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Rev. E. G. Hansell, Social Credit member for the Alberta constituency of Macleod, asked yesterday in the Commons if Canada could co-operate with Russia on the basis of the Soviet Union's record within the last decade.

He broke Russia's record into the following points:

1. Russia provoked, directed and promoted civil war in Spain.

2. Russia, in 1939, concluded a non-aggression treaty with Germany which enabled Hitler to launch his offensives.

3. Between September, 1939, and June, 1941, Russia supplied Germany with essential materials.

4. In September, 1939, Russia committed an act of aggression against Poland, despite a treaty of non-aggression with that country.

DEPORTED POLES

5. Russia deported Poles to Russian concentration camps where the treatment was as bad as in German camps.

6. Following the partition of Poland, Russia committed acts of aggression against Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania and Finland.

7. In countries occupied by Russia the Russians were acting in ways that were not different from the way in which the Germans had acted.

"Can we co-operate with that?" asked Mr. Hansell.

He did not finish his speech, delivered during debate on the war expenditures and demobilization resolution, within the 40-minute time limit. He said it would take him two hours to finish if he continued so he would leave for another time what else he had to say.

Most Repatriates Are on Way Home

By WILLIAM STEWART

GUAM, Oct. 3.—(CP)—All but 100 of the 779 Canadian prisoners brought here from Japanese camps now are on their way home.

The 779 total includes 29 Canadian servicemen held for a time at a staging camp at Saipan, and 20 civilians, all missionaries except for one merchant seaman. The Canadians at Saipan are all homeward bound but one.

The prisoners still here each received $100 yesterday following the arrival from Manila of three additional Canadian repatriation officers. Arrangements are also being made to bring mail from Manila for the prisoners, who will be here a few days longer.

There has been no word here about a group of approximately 150 Canadians scheduled to sail from Nagasaki Sept. 21 for Manila or Guam. These are believed to have been the last group of Canadians in Japan.

Freed Canucks Arrive in U.S. En Route Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3—(AP)—The first large unit of Canadian prisoners of war—244 enlisted men and one officer of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and Quebec Rifles captured Christmas Day, 1941, at Hong Kong, arrived here yesterday on the U.S. Ozark, a Pacific fleet mine layer.

Also on the Ozark were 658 United States army, navy and marine personnel and 140 civilians. The latter mostly former workers on Pacific island bases captured early in the war by the Japanese. Accompanying the Ozark were the Pacific fleet carriers Savo Island and Fanshaw Bay, with 1,214 returning American navy personnel.

Capt. John Anthony Reid, 32, Royal Canadian Army medical corps officer who had been attached to the Winnipeg Grenadiers, said the returned Canadians were in "fairly good shape, although lacking clothing."

CONDITION BETTER

The captain, of Toronto, said the Canadians had suffered during imprisonment from beri-beri, pellagra, dysentery and some pneumonia but since being released had gained back their average weight and now were in much improved condition.

Tales of harsh treatment, shortages of food and medical supplies were related by the Canadian soldiers, all of whom had been found in camps on the main Japanese island of Honshu.

After hostilities ceased Christmas day on Hong Kong the Canadians were kept in a prison camp on the island itself until Sept. 26, 1942. During that time several working parties of Canadians were taken by the Japanese to repair the bomb-battered airfields across the channel at Kowloon. The Canadians then were moved into a general prisoner-of-war camp at Kowloon arriving during a diphtheria epidemic. One month later they received their first Japanese-given serum.

MOVED TO JAPAN

On Jan. 19, 1942, the first Canadian draft of 960 men was sent to Japan, followed Aug. 15 by a second draft of the same number. These (they) were forced to work in shipyards, foundries, and as stevedores.

The Canadians, who came here from Tokyo, are scheduled to leave Wednesday by train for Seattle and then move by steamer to Victoria. After they are re-outfitted, given physical examinations and paid, they will be given 42 days leave each and sent to their homes.

Argentine Again Starts Censorship

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Argentine government last night reimposed a strict censorship on dispatches of foreign correspondents a few hours after rioting had broken out near the centre of Buenos Aires between students and a group of youths shouting "Viva Peron." Censorship which had been in effect since shortly after the opening of the Pacific war was lifted by the government last Aug. 27.

Judge Relents

Convicted Girl Is Freed After Prosecutor's Plea

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(CP)—Blond Phyllis Christinsen will start home for Vancouver today —a living witness that justice can be tempered with mercy.

Yesterday the 22-year-old British Columbia girl saw the strange spectacle of a prosecuting attorney pleading for her freedom in a Brooklyn court.

Earlier in the day, Judge Louis Goldstein had sentenced Miss Christinsen to from two to five years in Bedford Hills penitentiary after she pleaded guilty to grand larceny charges arising out of the armed robbery last Aug. 17 of a Brooklyn jewelry store.

Testimony showed Miss Christinsen had accompanied William Buchbinder, 33, to the store where he had beaten and robbed the woman proprietor.

The pair were caught after a two-mile chase and Buchbinder told police that Phyllis was "just a nice kid" he had picked up in Times Square the day before. He said she had gone to the jewelry store with him under the misapprehension that he was going to buy an engagement ring.

Shortly after her conviction, Burton Turkus, chief assistant district attorney of New York, learned of her plight. He protested to Judge Goldstein and begged him to be more lenient.

The Judge—to give the story its happy ending—relented.

Sentence has been suspended and Phyllis will go home to her mother in Vancouver.

Buchbinder, convicted three times previously, will go to prison for 15 to 30 years.

Million-Dollar Loan Is Renewed

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—(CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell yesterday tabled in the Commons an order-in-council passed under the Unemployment and Farm Assistance Act, and renewing for one year a loan of $1,600,000 to the province of Alberta.

Former Warden Passes at Coast

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3—(CP)—Lt.-Col. Herbert Walters Cooper, 61, who retired a year and a half ago as warden of the Prince Albert penitentiary, died at his home here Monday.

Col. Cooper was warden of the penitentiary at New Westminster before being transferred to Prince Albert 10 years ago. He was city relief officer for Vancouver in the early 30's.

Col. Cooper was the first warden to institute a Borstal system of segregating young convicts in a Canadian prison.

Born in England, he came to Canada in 1906.

After service in the First Great War, he returned to Canada in 1920 and he joined the penitentiary staff at St. Vincent de Paul, Quebec, going to Stoney Mountain penitentiary, near Winnipeg, as warden in 1921. He came to New Westminster penitentiary in 1923, resigning that post in 1928.

Canadian Painter Is Dead in East

MONTREAL, Oct. 3—(CP)—Alphonse Jongers, RCA, one of Canada's leading portrait painters, died at his home here yesterday after a short illness. He was 73. Mr. Jongers' works are on permanent exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum, New York, and at the National Art Galleries in Ottawa and Washington.

Charles Lindbergh delivered the first transoceanic air mail.

The ROAD AHEAD

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

THE time has come for a little plain talk. Just last week the suggestion was made in the House of Commons in Ottawa that the government should grant amnesty to men being sought on desertion and evasion charges under the NRM Act. In other words the government has been asked to forget that in time of crisis men, called up to serve in the armed forces of this country, refused to accept their duty as citizens.

Of the 6,400 or so men who vanished into thin air last winter when they were ordered to Europe where they are needed to reinforce tired overworked troops, about half of them have not yet been apprehended.

If the government were to follow the suggestion of the HONORABLE member who asked that amnesty be granted, these men would now be able to come back from the bush or. wherever they are shamefully hiding, and compete for jobs with workers who are now seeking new employment and men who did offer their lives in the service of Canada.

WOULD EARN DISGUST

It is hoped that the Canadian government will never entertain such a shameful suggestion. Were such an amnesty to be granted the government of Canada would earn and get the complete disgust of every loyal Canadian—especially of those who carried the burden of the fighting.

It has been my unpleasant duty twice to charge men with cowardice in the face of the enemy for failing to carry out tasks assigned to them in battle. It has been my unpleasant duty several times to sit as a member of a court-martial to try and pass judgement upon men who deserted their units rather than share the common risk of death which all soldiers share.

Last winter in Italy, after the reports had reached us that the NRMA troops had skipped out, it was my unpleasant duty on several occasions to sit and agree to sentences of three, four and five years penal servitude passed on men who were found guilty of desertion.

At the same time as we in the field were passing those kind of sentences on men, who by their actions had endangered the lives and in some cases caused the deaths of their comrades, courts in Canada were passing out trifling sentences of a few months on men who had deserted their units when ordered overseas for duty.

To my mind, and to the minds of every soldier who has seen action, it is a far worse thing to jump ship in Canada than it is to refuse to endure known risks in the field. The men we tried and sentenced over there had at least tried. Knowing fear ourselves, we were never sure how much a man who deserted in the field was actually responsible for his own actions.

At the time those men jumped ships, Canadians in my own unit —we were doing shifts of four hours on guard and two off—instead of two hours on and four off—because we were so shamefully short of reinforcements.

When General McNaughton, who described himself as a "competent military authority," was assuring the House that Canadians in Europe were adequately supplied with reinforcements, we were fighting with platoons numbering less than 20 men—instead of 32. And most battalions were fighting with three small companies, instead of four companies, as the establishments called for.

MEN OVER-TIRED

Because those men refused to come over, men were over-tired, too few men were sent in to do too-big jobs—and Canadians died as a result. Men didn't get their proper rest because there weren't enough of us there to do the job properly and let men get the rest they should get—and men died because they were too tired to take normal precautions for their own safety.

Those men who deserted in the field and were sentenced will pay as long as they live for a moment of weakness. Even if they—the men who deserted in the field—were granted amnesty now, the stigma of their guilt will follow them to the grave.

And some people say we should set the Canadian deserter free now—give them the high sign to come home and compete for jobs before our armies are all back. That will be the crowning insult!

Found Not Guilty On Theft Charges

Found not guilty on a charge of stealing milk cans and milk bottle cases, the property of an Edmonton dairy, Walter Pankiw, district farmer and milk dealer, was discharged by Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd sitting in supreme court.

The court held that the accused followed a common practice in using cans and boxes of other dairies, and that the evidence failed to disclose intent to steal.

Five other charges of theft of cans and bottle cases were withdrawn by the Crown following the not guilty verdict.

Walter Beaumont appeared for the accused, with Guy Patterson KC, prosecuting.

GERMAN PRISONERS AT WAINWRIGHT ARE KEPT BUSY—Above are shown scenes at the Wainwright internment camp, which was opened to representatives of The Edmonton Bulletin on Monday for story and pictures. The top picture shows a group of German officers applying themselves to studies and relaxation with works from the library, which is well stocked and maintained by offices of the International Red Cross and the YMCA. Huts and buildings were made with an eye to utility. During certain hours this long room is used as the beer hall, as some of the murals attest. In the second picture the shoemakers' trade is represented in this group of German NCO's and privates, 250 of whom are among the 1,000 officers interred at Wainwright. If the officers' "Kommis-Sateifel" (riding boots) could talk they would probably tell many stories of their measured tread on the sands of North Africa, in Greece, Italy and the broad acres of the Soviet Union. The bottom picture shows a huge sirloin roast entering the oven! This is only one of the many required to serve up a tantalizing dinner for the interned German officers. The well-appointed kitchen sparkles with cleanliness, and cuisine is presided over by an officer who, before the war, had many chefs under his guidance. German officers are not required to work unless they volunteer. Many of them do so to break the monotony of prison life. The ordinary ration is sufficient for most prisoners. Those who work are entitled to double food rations.

Compound Inspected, German Captives Interviewed

Veil Of Wartime Censorship Is Removed From Wainwright Prisoner-of-War Camp

Security regulations respecting prisoner-of-war camps in Canada were relaxed to a considerable degree on Oct. 1, and the public relations department of Military District No. 13 issued an invitation to inspect them, take photographs and publish impressions. The following exclusive story is the first published release since the lifting of restrictions. Representatives of The Edmonton Bulletin—Alberta's First Newspaper—were the first newsmen to enter prisoner-of-war camps in Alberta.—EDITOR.

By VIC O'NEILL

Edmonton Bulletin Staff Reporter

The friendly, welcome sun shone pleasantly from a cloudless October sky. The guns had not been silenced. At irregular and sometimes long intervals aerial formations would draw fire from camouflaged emplacements somewhere near the rolling dips and high crests of the distant horizon. We were surrounded by German officers.

But this was not war. This was indeed a result of the ending of war. The aerial formations were not Stukas, Messerschmitts or jet-propelled fighters. They were mallards, pintails, gadwalls and shovellers winging their way to one of the many placid pools of water dotting the rolling Alberta countryside.

Among the crews manning the 12-gauge ack-ack batteries were jaded businessmen and executives escaping for the moment the grind of daily urban toil.

In the distance I saw a motor-car speeding along the highway. Here and there remnants of a rookery of raucous crows dotted the clear sky like animated inky punctuation marks. The sound of guttural voices and the sight of prison garb worn by work parties of the non-commissioned ranks reminded me that I was in the presence of men who a few months previously and under altered circumstances would cheerfully have put an end to me and my companion.

It seemed to me they, too, had seen the motor car and the crows and that they were reflecting.

SYMBOLS OF LIBERTY

We viewed these symbols of liberty from the barbed confines of the mile-square prisoner-of-war compound of the internment camp at Wainwright, Alberta.

First representatives of the press to be allowed within the compound after the relaxing of regulations and civilians since the establishment of the camp, we were accorded every courtesy and assistance by the military authorities in charge. Acting on behalf of Lt.-Col. C. G. Bradshaw, commandant of the camp, Capt. R. G. Ashbury, adjutant, placed a jeep at our disposal.

With freedom to interview captive German officers and to take photographs within the limits of existing military censorship, we were accompanied on a tour of the camp by Lt. A. F. Walsh, RCNVR, intelligence officer, who acted as interpreter, and S.-Sgt. T. Burgess, Veterans' Guard of Canada. S.-Sgt. Burgess was a member of the Imperial Guard, 11th Hussars, during the First Great War.

"It is the opinion of the entire camp that Hitler is dead." I was told by a full ranking German colonel, camp leader and spokesman for more than 1,000 captured officers. Of genial and accommodating mien the tall, well-built, middle-aged, bespectacled Bavarian is one of seven full-fledged colonels interned at the Wainwright camp. In his reply to question regarding Hitler the colonel exhibited no evi-

Join "Holiday" Plan

Edmonton Miners Drop Tools In Protesting Meat Ration

Unanimously registering endorsation of the walk-out of 4,500 Drumheller and Crow's Nest Pass area miners in Southern Alberta, 300 Edmonton district coal miners at a meeting in Beverly Tuesday afternoon voted to quit work as of Tuesday night.

The men attending the meeting represented almost the complete complement of miners in the Edmonton area. Only skeleton maintenance crews remained at their posts while the meeting progressed in the packed Slovak hall.

The 300 Edmonton district men joined an estimated 7,000 miners throughout Alberta and British Columbia already away from collieries in protest against meat rationing.

AFFECTS TEN MINES

Peter Collins, secretary of the United Mine Workers in the Edmonton district, said Wednesday that about ten coal mines in this area would be affected by the workers' "holiday."

"The men are prepared to remain away from the mines until their demands are met," Mr. Collins declared. He added that if the government decides to "amend the rationing program tonight, the men will be back at their jobs tomorrow."

The walkout question was thoroughly discussed at the meeting, held under chairmanship of Nick Wasywich, president of the Edmonton local of the United Mine Workers of America. The meeting was called by the men themselves, rather than by the executive of the local, and the men themselves made their decision, Mr. Collins said.

The present walkout is the first by Edmonton district miners since 1942, when they stayed away from their pits for 14 days.

ACTION IN SOUTH

Decision to take a "holiday" was first made by the Southern Alberta miners last Thursday, when 4,500 men left work, determined not to return until their demands for a greater meat allowance were met.

Two hundred and fifty miners at Luscar and 60 in Saunders Creek in the Coal Branch district walked out Monday, following other Coal Branch walkouts during the week-end when 200 men quite work at Mercoal and Moutain Park.

The miners contend that the new meat ration is "stupid" and ask double rations of "red" meat and that cooked and smoked meats be excluded from rationing entirely.

Donald Gordon, prices board chairman, warned at Calgary Monday that miners will not get bigger meat rations unless they produce better arguments than they have so far and added that taking the law into their own hands and trying to "bludgeon" the authorities into concessions would get them nowhere.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The mother is justly proud when her infant sprouts his first two teeth early in the first year; for she feels it is obvious then, that she fed herself properly during the months before the baby was born.

The 20th first teeth and some of the permanent teeth are developing long before the baby comes into the world, toothless. The diet the mother has had and the good use to which her body has put it, are the most vital influences on the whiteness and soundness of those first teeth, when they appear.

Ordinarily, the crinkly edges of the first two teeth to show up are the central, lower incisors. These are cut sometime between the fifth and eighth months of baby's life. They may come in slightly earlier or slightly later, but the average is between these ages.

The next to appear are the two, upper, central incisors and the upper, lateral incisors, which matched with the lower teeth make six, usually by the first birthday.

Within the next three or four months the lower, lateral incisors and the anterior molars erupt and then the eye and stomach teeth and the posterior molars between then and the thirtieth month.

The condition of the milk teeth and especially the permanent teeth will be greatly influenced too, by the diet t which the baby is treated after birth. The amount of milk, egg, green and yellow vegetables, whole-grain cereals and fruits are important as well as the vitamin D. This latter helps him to deposit the minerals from these foods in the bones, teeth and nervous system.

Children who suffer during teething and develop convulsions are advertising their lack of nutrition and especially their lack of vitamin D.

Ordinarily, when teething, a baby may have a day or two of loose stools, of appetitelessness, maybe a temporary rash. But none of these should be longer than a day or two of discomfort if the mother is respectful of the lagging appetite and does not try to force food.

Let the baby be quiet, drink all the water and fruit juices that he will and then he will recover quickly, both his disposition and his appetite, when the tooth is finally cut. To attribute every ailment a baby has from his fith to his thirtieth month to teething, would be to ignore the real illnesses which are crying out for treatment.

Our leaflet, "Teeth", indicates when the milk and permanent teeth are cut. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

THESE WOMEN—"I TOLD you your Aunt Matilda wouldn't like your gallivanting all over Europe. While you were gone, she cut you off without a cent!"

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Inject Pep Into Deadly Dull Marital Routine

Boredom Wrecks Marriage; It Is What Causes Husbands to Philander and Wives to Nag, and Children to Take to the Streets

The chief thing that is the matter with domesticity is boredom. It is what causes husbands to philander, and wives to nag, and children to take to the streets and that makes us add subconsciously "and thank heaven for it" when we sing, "There Is No Place Like Home."

Boredom is the explanation of why so many marriages are failures. Why does the average married couple spend their evenings yawning in each other's faces. Isn't it because they are fed up to the teeth on each other's society and are bored to extinction? Why do husbands and wives indulge in their daily spat? Isn't it an instinctive effort to infuse a little pep into the deadly dull daily routine? What makes children want to get away from their comfortable homes and good, kind parents as soon as they can stand on their own feet? Isn't it because they are surfeited with the drabness of family life and want to get out into the world where things are happening?

SIGNIFICANT SYMPTOMS

Isn't all of this swapping of husbands and wives that messes up society so badly the effort of bored men and women to find more entertaining companions than the ones they have? Isn't boredom what ails most of the peevish, fretful, discontented women, who have husbands who never take them any place or do anything to amuse them? And when the Tired Business Man takes to roaming, isn't it oftener than not because his wife has let her conversation get as dull as dish water, and an evening spent in her company comes under the head of mental cruelty?

Perhaps boredom may seem a small reason for husbands and wives falling out of love with each other, but, human nature being what it is, the truth of the matter is that no people get so on our nerves as those who just make us tired. In especial, we could overlook a few crimes in our mates easier than we do their being repeaters who harp perpetually on the same string, or who sit up in a frozen silence when we tell them a bit of startling news, or who simply grunt when we try to chirk them up with a funny story.

All of which suggests that among the chief duties of husbands and wives is to keep their mates entertained. Certainly it is their one best bet if they desire to retain their affections and keep them glad that they married them, for when boredom takes up its abode on the hearthstone, love flier out of the window.

GOOD LINE

So my earnest advice to all bridal couples is to provide themselves with a good line to feed to their mates when the love talk peters out. Every young wife should study up on her husband's business and take a genuine heart interest in all of his plans and ambitions and be able to talk shop with him, for that is a subject of which no man ever tires. And every young husband should bring home to his wife a budget of news he has collected during the day and the good stories he has heard.

It isn't enough for men and women to be good husbands and wives. They have to be good companions as well if they want to make thei marriages successes. To do that they have to make as much conscious effort to be interesting and amusing as they would if they were attempting to make a good impression on a stranger.

So, husbands and wives, watch your step, and when you see John or Maria getting that patient, tired look, pep up your technique. Love can be bored to death quicker than any other way.

McKenney On Bridge

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

There is an interesting endplay in today's hand, played by Cpl. Alvin Roth in a rubber bridge game at Mayfair Bridge Club in New York.

When Roth saw the freak distribution in dummy, as well as in his own hand, he decided to provide against freak distribution in the opponents' hands. He won the first club trick, and immediately cashed the king of diamonds. He entered dummy by ruffing the king of clubs, played the ace of diamonds, and discarded the heart nine. His next play was the jack of diamonds, and he made up his mind that regardless of East's play, he was going to discard the king of hearts. This play cannot lose, as the queen of diamonds is the only card of that suit outstanding. East ruffed with the nine of spades, a nice play. If Roth over-ruffed with the jack, he still would lose a spade and a heart; but by discarding the king of hearts, Roth could ruff low any return made by East, pick up the outstanding trumps and make his contract.

McCoy Health Service

Courage is a mighty fine companion. Like happiness and enthusiasm, it increases the strength of the body. On the other hand, fear and his spouse, worry, are two sapling leeches, tearing down the strength and vitality.

Courage or fear, happiness or misery, are largely matters of habits and beliefs. Your environment may seem to you to be the cause of all your troubles, but this is not strictly true. Most of one's misery is caused by the way one reacts to circumstances. Instead of mooning or cursing at blind fate, how much better it is to try to improve yourself regardless of conditions.

Strong men develop their bodies by lifting heavy weights and doing hard work. The same may be true in the mental realm. Your troubles should be considered as weights to be lifted to strengthen your mental muscles.

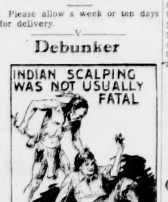

Physchologists have come to believe that fear is the most destructive force in the lives of most people. Let us look into this business of being afraid. Science has shown that we are born afraid of only three things. They are these. The loss of support or of being dropped, the fear of a loud noise and physical pain. All of our other fears, such as the fear of losing a job, the fear of going blind, the fear of saying a wrong thing, the fear of being left out of things and being forgotten, the fear of not having enough when one is old and any of the hundreds of fears with which you may be possessed, are all fears which you have acquired. You began with the first three and picked up the others as you went along. They are all needless. In fact if you would only remove fear entirely from your life, you would be overwhelmed with surprise at how pleasant our days could be with fears and worries eliminated, and courage and confidence to take their place.

It is a splendid mental habit to simply try to forget about your fears and worries and substitute thinking about health and other cheerful subjects. Too many people spend more time thinking how they are going to feel when they are sick than how good they are feeling while they are well. Think of yourself enjoying your work, achieving, accomplishing, doing worthwhile things and deserving good health. If you can build up this inner confidence, it will not take a year's time before you will so have built up your strength and your energy that you will be a changed person. Think of yourself walking up to a mirror; try to see the roses in your cheeks, the shine in your eyes, your head up, and your shoulders square, and hold that mental picture. Realize that health is natural and that happiness is normal.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Debunker

Most of the American Indians knew nothing of scalping, and it was practiced by only a few of the eastern tribes, as the Iroquois and Muskhogeans. The idea was encouraged by the early colonists, who offered rewards for scalps of enemies. The practice dates back from the Scythians, according to Greek historians. Usually, in America, only a small patch about the size of an American dollar was removed from the crown of the head as a trophy, and victims were likely to live if no other harm was done.

Guatemalo Fears Armed Uprising

GUATEMALA CITY, Oct. 3—(AP)—President Juan Jose Arevalo's cabinet yesterday day suspended constitutional guarantees for one month because, it said, an armed coup to overthrow the government was brewing. A decree voted at an emergency meeting of the cabinet Monday night linked reactionaries with former dictators and "military personnel not connected with the army" and said they planned to assassinate leaders of the October, 1944, revolution which brought the present regime to power.

Wants Belligerents Have Peace Voice

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Oct. 3—(CP)—James Byrnes, United States' state secretary, at a press conference today expressed conviction that countries, European and non-European, which made a substantial contribution to the war should be called into conference on the peace before final decisions are taken by the Big Three. His stand brought the question of Canada's participation in such conferences to the fore.

Mr. Byrnes was asked about the inclusion of the nations of the British Commonwealth and Empire in such a peace conference. He replied that he had laid down the language to cover the representation of countries and could not deal with specific cases.

Mr. Byrnes said at his press conference that nowadays it is impossible for any two or three governments because of their power to arrive at a peace settlement, hand it to the rest of the world and say "sign on the dotted line." Countries which engaged in the war and gave their sons would not be willing to accept a position where they had no opportunity to say anything about the kind of peace to be made.

Women Avert Inflation

OTTAWA, Oct. 3—Women in Canada have made economic history in helping to avert inflation, Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board told representatives of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee, from Quebec, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, at a special conference here Tuesday.

Countless taking anti-inflation measures during the war, without enlisting the support of the women buyers, how had less success than Canada has had, he said.

He asked for their continued support during the present dangerous transition period, when some shortages of goods continue, and the Board is faced with a feeling of let down in a war weary public.

DANGEROUS TIME

"Now is the most dangerous time. You have only to look at the record," he stated, adding that the Board depends upon women to keep the public alive to the danger.

Answering questions, Mr. Gordon defined the difference between the last meat ration program and the present as "the need to improve distribution during the former program, and the present need to reduce consumption in order to do our share in sending meat to Europe."

The token system, he asserted is a good feature because it permits small purchases. Tokens should be regarded as change for a coupon just as there is change for money.

NEW PEAKS

Meat consumption in Canada rose to new peaks during the war, for the present ration is a reduction to 130 pounds per person per year, whereas prior to the war the average Canadian consumption of meat was 112 pounds per person per year, the chairman pointed out.

"Canadians are the only people in the British Empire getting more meat now than they did before the war," he said.

Mrs. Frank Conroy, Edmonton, chairman of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee in Alberta presided. Mrs. R. L. Nicholson is chairman of Calgary Committee; Mrs. A. C. Nelson, Lethbridge and Mrs. A. Reinhardt, Medicine Hat, represented committees in southern Alberta at the conference.

dences of regret. A countenance which he used as an adjunct to his utterances on other occasions remained impassive and unreadable.

SKILFULLY EVASIVE

Skilfully evasive on questions pertaining to Germany's collapse in her second bid for widespread world conquest, the field officer revealed a concern for the well-being of his wife and two children.

This reluctance prompted me to press for his views on the eleventh-hour threat by Germany that if she fell sabotage and reprisal action would be carried on through "werewolf" guerilla activity.

Captured in Italy in May, 1944, the colonel said he had been too long away from the high command to know much about such an arrangement but doubted that it existed. Even if it did attempt to organize he was of the opinion that occupation forces would shatter it in the embryonic stage.

EMPHATIC IN DENIAL

He was emphatic in his denial that members of the Gestapo and SS Elite Guard had at any time been placed in authority over the army. Many officers were with the colonel at the time of the interview and there was a chorus of "nein, nein!" when I posed the question of SS Elite Guard supreme authority under Himmler. I soon discovered they were Prussians whose pride in German militarism was at once both fact and legend in world history.

Word of our arrival spread throughout the compound almost with the speed of light. To the internees it was something entirely new to see a civilian with a notebook and another with photographic equipment enter the heavily guarded gates of the enclosure. On every hand there appeared to be a pervading air of excitement. With the slightest encouragement on our part arms would raise smartly in salute and broad smiles would suffuse their features.

The novel episode in the routine of their lives was obviously interpreted as a possible beginning of their expatriation to Germany. Majority of the internees were married and had families in the Fatherland, said the colonel, and while a great many "admired Canada very much" they were anxious to return to their homeland.

NO RELUCTANCE SHOWN

Officers who had any responsibility for the actions of German troops had conducted warfare in accordance with the rules laid down at the Geneva conference and there was no question of reluctance at returning home even in face of the hazards said to exist in the Russian occupied area.

In broken English the leader of the internees answered me with "Canada, America" as I asked him by me" when told that American occupation personnel could apply to their commanding officer for permission to marry German Fraulein. He added, "we have many relatives in the United States and Canada, too."

An intelligence officer of the camp told me he had in German asked the place of birth of a recent arrival. Said arrival replied, "Passiac, New Jersey."

"You can speak English then," pursued the officer.

"Sure I can," drawled the novitate to the interinment camp.

HUTS ARE INSPECTED

By this time my colleague had departed with his photographic paraphrenalia for other interesting "shots" within the compound. I took the opportunity to visit the many huts, accompanied by S-Sgt. Burgess, the Bavarian colonel and a Prussian captain who acted as interpreter.

Our first objective was the library. As was to be expected in any library it was occupied by the more studious types, and it was here I noticed for the first time an example of the much-heard-of German arrogance.

Interrupted from his reading by the unexpected arrival of the German leader and his civilian stranger, a Prussian officer arose to attention and bowed stiffly as introduction was made. His pale blue eyes fixed upon me in a glare of contempt as he slowly resumed his seat and continued his studies. From time to time I looked in his direction with a smile playing on my features, but always I was met by a cold and steely expression.

Through the offices of the Red Cross and the YMCA the library had been well stocked with fiction, the sciences, Theology and philosophy. When I could not find the works of Nietzsche among almost every other philosopher, general laughter ensued, apparently in appreciation of the fact that much of this philosopher's works had been culled in Hitler's writing of "Mein Kampf."

Someone said, "but you cannot publish that". I replied, "why not. Nietzsche's works are on our library shelves and in our university libraries". This brought forth a pandemonium of laughter from the many bookworms present at this time; men who had been chosen to represent the true Nordic type of humanism, as advocated in both "Mein Kampf" and in the works of Schopenhauer's understudy, Nietzsche.

Absence of the gloomy philosopher's works and of "Mein Kampf" was ascribed to a policy of re-education on the part of the United Nations. My explanation that Nietzsche's works were hard to obtain and that Hitler's "Mein Kampf" was out of print seemed to make little difference to the majority of German prisoners present in the library. They did not understand the workings of democracy, wherein a person is entitled to read whatever pleases his fancy.

With my company I left the library, wondering whether these men in their offspring would ever absorb the liberties enjoyed under a democracy.

During the walk to the commodious mess hall and kitchen the German colonel said that internees at the Wainwright camp had been treated well, and that Canadian military authorities had "no every respect" lived up to the agreements of the Geneva conference respecting prisoners-of-war.

SOME DIFFICULTIES

It was true that on a few occasions difficulties had arisen through the "reprehensible actions" of minority groups of the compound's population who had taken upon themselves the responsibility of disobeying orders. Although the colonel was silent on what he meant by "reprehensible" I gathered he referred to two men who had escaped from work parties outside the compound. They were later captured, I learned from the camp adjutant, Capt. Asbury.

Through efforts of military intelligence directed at discovering their source of asylum, one escaped prisoner got as far as the United States before he was apprehended. Earlier, the adjutant explained, these escapees were caught because they found no source of protection or aid in either Canada or the United States.

At the kitchen we were greeted by the savory odor of an appetizing meal in preparation. A request for rice is sensitive to anything that smacks of a good meal, but above and beyond this I could detect the aroma of coffee that made my mouth water. Inquiring, I was told that "Wilhelm" was putting the finishing touches to delicacies grown by the internees in their large vegetable garden.

"Wilhelm" turned out to be an interesting character. And no wonder he knew how to get that "extra something" into his pickles! For 39 years he had been chief steward of the Hamburg-America Steamship lines, and during this time he had rubbed shoulders with the world's great including British royalty. Many famous chefs French, German and British had been under his direction for many years and he knew the "secrets" as far as cuisine was concerned.

The 56-year-old chief steward had been recalled by Germany at the outbreak of war. Subsequently he was placed as head of diet in a German hospital at Cherbourg, where he was captured in June, 1945.

Prior to the war he had travelled the world on ships of the Hamburg-American Line, said the effusive and talkative steward. His last trip was on the St. Louis which in 1939, with pennsylvania refugees aboard, left for Havana where they were refused to dock. Complications arose and the Cuban authorities would not allow the 890 Jews on board to land on their island.

JEWISH "PROFESSIONALS"

"The majority of the ship's passengers were Jewish professional men and women seeking refuge from Germany when they were ordered to leave," said Wilhelm. "We showed them every decent courtesy, he went on, "which was what we wished to do even though authorities of the Hamburg-American Line had ordered it." With refusal of Havana they wheeled in their course and delivered one-third each of the passengers to Holland, Belgium and England, said the German steward. And then the war was on in all its fury.

With the removal of wounded soldiers from the Normandy front he had been placed in charge of their comfort until he reached England, where he again took up duties, stated the famous steward.

"And now I am where I am," said Wilhelm, returning to his pickles. From an earlier conference with officials of the camp I learned that captive officers were not required to work unless they volunteered to do so. Besides the unprecedented arrival of newsmen in the camp, exchange was high in the air. Not to afford to use a selected number of volunteer German officers in the logging and lumbering industry in the north. Placements available were by far outnumbered by those applying for the jobs said Capt. Asbury.

ART STUDIO NEXT

Next I was conducted to the art studio in one of the smaller huts at the compound. Here I saw works of art that left a high standard in keeping with the reputation throughout history, which Germany had built for herself. This art work decorated many of the buildings.

The long and well appointed wet canteen was a veritable art gallery of wall murals depicting a range of subjects that included scenes of barroom brawls and the birth of Christ.

On every hand there were evidences of nostalgia for the Fatherland and for families left behind. Some murals afforded in caricature likenesses of the leaders of the German allies with comical and contemptuous inscriptions artistically lettered in German text.

One cartoon placed conspicuously on the wall caught my eye. It had to do with the difference in acceptance of an internee's life. The cartoon depicted one prisoner walking endlessly around within the limits of the compound and reflecting only to himself, while the other daily absorbed rays of the sun while dreaming of beautiful things in the homeland. In German the subtitle read, "Der eine kampelt seine Runden, der andere traumt von schonen Dingen."

IDENTITIES CONCEALED

Existing military regulations prevent revelation of identities and therefore it is impossible to name the artist, but without the slightest exaggeration I may say their work was modern and comparable to anything I have seen in Canada.

Before I left the art shop I was shown a pencil sketch of an artist's wife. Her features were beautiful and reflected on the face of the artist that motivated the artist to record his consort.

Then I remembered I was told these prisoners had not seen a woman since their capture, some of whom had been prisoners for more than five years. For this reason women of the Canadian services were not allowed to work in internment camps, and those driving incoming transport trucks were not allowed to approach the compound, I was told.

Suddenly I found myself alone with interned non-commissioned officers captured in North Africa, Italy and Normandy. Many of these men were of the German navy whose commander, Admiral Karl Doenitz, was named as Hitler's successor when Germany fell.

ABSORBED IN STORIES

I had become so absorbed in their stories of life in Germany, before the outbreak of war that I neglected to observe that my companions had left for the purpose of taking part in photographs then being taken by my press colleague.

Anxious to exhibit their wares, these boys pointed with pride to a woodland glade scene painted by one of their officers. It, too, smacked of the Germans' nostalgia, since it depicted a forest glade pierced by saffron rays of the sun in the "Schwartzwald," or Black Forest, slightly beyond the Saar Valley in Germany.

I had until "1830 hours" to get out of the compound, and as this meant 6.30 p.m. I hastened to make a survey of the remainder of interesting things inspecting the internees of Wainwright camp.

Officers' boots that fit almost to the knee and named by the German Kommandant Seidel "Hitler boots" repaired by an industrious group in the leather processing hut. When I saw these shoes I reflected they had trodden in measured step on the sands of North Africa, in Greece, Italy, France and the wide areas of the Soviet Union.

New Milk Process For Far Shipments

The U.S. Army, it was announced Wednesday, has developed a milk process which makes possible the shipment and storage of fresh, frozen, homogenized milk, to the most remote points on the North American continent. As a direct result, the army disclosed, fresh milk may be available to countless numbers of persons in the future who otherwise never have known the benefits to be derived from this basic food product.

Frozen, homogenized milk has been prepared in the Edmonton City Dairy under the supervision of U.S. Army medical officers of the 7th Service Command, specifically for the purpose of making it available to troops stationed at remote points along the Alaska Highway and at air bases from Edmonton to Fairbanks, where fresh milk from cows approved by army authorities is unavailable to military personnel.

Co-operating with the American military officials, the Edmonton City Dairy has successfully prepared an experimental quantity of the newly developed product packed in quart size wax fiber containers.

When thawed slowly this milk returns to its normal fluid condition with no change in taste from ordinary fresh milk.

According to Lt.-Col. Jesse W. Hoover, chief of the dairy section in Edmonton, such small quantities of frozen milk can be satisfactorily prepared in Canada for army and mail truck shipments. In addition, it may be stored in freezer boxes for periods up to three months without deterioration.

City Resident Is 92 Years Old

Resident of Edmonton since 1921, Alexander William Josey, 10932 81 street, was receiving congratulations Wednesday on his 92nd birthday anniversary. A former building contractor he is still hale and hearty for all his years.

A party is to be given in his honor at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. E. Merrick, 17 Wellington Crescent, which will be attended by two daughters, and one son with their husbands and wife, five grandchildren and one great grandchild. Altogether Mr. Josey can boast of eight great grandchildren.

Born at Sheet Harbor, Nova Scotia, he remembers the days of the Fenian raid and how he was training as a soldier during that period, later he was a member of the garrison artillery in Halifax and often relates how he used to work an old 10-inch muzzle-loader cannon.

Some of the buildings he worked on in later years were, the Administration Building here, the grain elevator at Calder, Eastwood school, Jasper National Hotel and the Fort McMurray Salt Co. buildings.

One of Mr. Josey's greatest delights is cooking meals and according to his son-in-law, G. H. Holmes, "he can turn out one of the best chicken dinners you ever saw."

Total of U.S. Idle Mounts to 415,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The government was full steam ahead on the track of conciliation today in efforts to catch up with mounting labor strife across the United States.

The strike lines expanded in the last 24 hours by fresh labor disputes and a survey disclosed some 415,000 idle, one of the largest number in months. New trouble threatened as a strike vote called for Friday will pull 200,000 telephone workers off their jobs for four hours.

Walkouts in oil and coal industries affect about 130,000 workers and have seriously curtailed production.

A showdown appeared imminent in the oil controversy. In Washington, CIO oil workers reportedly were ready to accept a government plan that would end a strike which has closed refineries and plants in 15 states and put about 40,000 workers on the strike lines.

The spreading soft coal strike in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky, kept idle some 90,000 miners. The solid fuels administration banned producers in the struck area from making non-essential shipments.

Workman Injured

A workman employed on the Wartime Housing project in South Edmonton was removed to the University hospital shortly after 1:30 p.m. Wednesday after he had been struck by an automobile near the intersection of 98 street and Whyte avenue. The injured man, believed to have suffered bone fractures, was taken to hospital by Jack Hays' ambulance.

Congressmen Vote To Cut U.S. Taxes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The house of representative ways and means committee voted yesterday to remove 12,000,000 low-income persons from the income tax rolls in 1946 and to cut the total individual income tax burden almost $500,000,000 from the administration recommended.

Fred A. Vinson, secretary of the treasury, had asked a $2,085,000,000 cut in the individual taxes. The committee voted an estimated $2,500,000,000. It has yet to act on his recommendations for corporation and excess profits. If it approves them without change, its total proposed cut would amount to $5,500,000,000.

Mr. Vinson had recommended that the three per cent. "normal tax" on individual incomes be repealed but the committee brushed this suggestion aside.

Darnand to Die

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Joseph Darnand, who was chief of Vichy's militia, was condemned to death tonight by the high court of justice upon a jury decided in less than an hour that he was guilty of collaborating with the Germans after the defeat of France.

Big British Force Lands in Palestine

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3.—(CP)—Several thousand troops of the British 6th Airborne Division disembarked at Haifa today from the 15,000-ton mail liner Dunnottar Castle as tension persisted between Arabs and Jews in Palestine. Stone-throwing incidents were reported in Jaffa and the Tel Aviv area.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The White House said today the Palestine problem still was in "the diplomatic stage." Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told his news conference that President Truman has received a communication from Prime Minister Attlee but could not say whether or when it will be made public.

Mr. Attlee's communication, a telegram, presumably replied to President Truman's letter of Aug. 31 relating to admission of Jewish refugees to Palestine. Senator Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.) told the senate yesterday Mr. Truman asked that 100,000 of these European refugees be permitted to immigrate, but that British authorities had rejected the proposal.

CBC Operations Reveal Deficit For Last Year

OTTAWA, Oct. 3.—(CP)—A net operating deficit of $72,747 for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1945, was shown in the annual report of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation tabled yesterday in the Commons by Revenue Minister McCann.

The operating surplus before depreciation allowance for depreciation and obsolescence amounted to $154,913.

Net income amounted to $5,498,397, made up of $3,783,452 from license fees, $1,759,159 from commercial business, and $75,785 from miscellaneous sources.

Minister Leaves To Attend Meet

Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, has gone to Lloydminster to attend the official opening of the Meridian Highway, which will be held Thursday afternoon.

The opening will be a joint affair with Alberta and Saskatchewan officials taking part.

Hon. J. Douglas, minister of highways, will represent the Saskatchewan government.

A dinner for more than 100 officials will be held in Lloydminster after the opening ceremony.

Land that is in close-growing crops more than half the time and planted in row crops only about one year out of three loses much less top soil by erosion than continuously cultivated land.

Men Look Out Again At Prairies

First Glimpse Of West In Years Thrills Engineers Of 33rd Unit

By E. R. HORTON
Edmonton Bulletin staff Reporter

KIPLING, Sask., Oct. 3.—When blinds were lifted on Wednesday morning on the army special train carrying the 33rd Field Company back to their Edmonton and district homes, the personnel on it got their first view of the prairies in many years and they delighted in it.

There was a feeling on the train that it was travelling much too slowly. As one burly sapper expressed it: "They must be pulling this with a dog team."

The men bound for the West Coast and Calgary were dismayed that the trip was to be made via Regina Saskatoon and Edmonton, but still were glad to be home in Canada again making some progress to their destination.

With 2 Road Construction Company RCE, in Belgium, Lieut. J. B. Cummings who said that his address was just Edmonton found little excitement. They were filling potholes in Dutch roads with tarmac he said and sometimes the stuff was hot, but outside of that they had little trouble. When the Allied armies advanced into Germany the work of construction company ceased. He intends to return to his former job with the provincial government on his discharge.

PRAIRIES "BEAUTIFUL"

Lieut. W. F. McEwen, who graduated in 1939 from the University of Alberta with a degree in engineering and who joined the Engineers in 1942, said he had been with the 1st Canadian Division Engineers engaged in road clearing, maintenance and bridge construction in Italy before he moved with the 1st Division into the northwestern European theatre of war in March of this year. The prairies look beautiful, he said.

A trip to the outskirts of Berlin where he was turned back by the Russians was told by Lieut. Michael Shandro, of Shandro, Alta., he had been out in his jeep said the lieutenant and decided to take a look at Berlin but that decision was gently but firmly changed by the Russian sentries at the outskirts of the captured city.

They were very polite but very very firm, said Mr. Shandro. He is Ukrainian by descent and speaks that language, but said that he experienced a great deal of difficulty in understanding and in making himself understood, but Russian cordiality and courtesy of which he spoke did not conceal the fact that he was not going to enter Berlin.

TAKES UP PROFESSION

His only plans for the future were for his 30-day leave he said, but he expects that he will take up his profession as soon as possible. He graduated just before entering the services as an electrical engineer at the University of Alberta.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nikon Shandro wait for him at Shandro.

Dr. S. Risken who had been dental officer with the Perth Regiment, 1st Canadian Division in Italy and in Europe, practised his profession in Edmonton for eight years before the war. His wife, the former Ethel Simburg of Vegreville, and his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. D. Risken of Stony Plain road, will be awaiting him in Edmonton, he hoped.

Lt.-Col. P. Debney, representing the district officer commanding MD 13, spent the late hours of Tuesday night and the early ones on Wednesday morning greeting old friends among both the officers and other ranks of the unit. He had been officer commanding the 33rd Field Company in England before his recall to Canada in 1942.

ISSUE PASSES

Officers and NCO's, of Calgary district headquarters headed by Major J. Garland formerly of Vermilion started work on Wednesday morning to give passes to the personnel and to answer all their questions in connection with leave discharge and all the other queries which have been agitating the minds of the men for many months.

A. W. JOSEY

Protest Proposed Use of Hospital

Requesting that the city council take action to have the Jesuit College hospital made available for returned service personnel instead of its proposed utilization as a sanitarium for Indians, a delegation from the Canadian Legion, the Navy Mothers' League, Westmount Community League, and the Central Executive of the Women's Auxiliaries waited on Mayor John W. Fry and the city commissioners Wednesday.

It was announced at the meeting that a petition containing 453 signatures of residents in the vicinity of the college had been sent to Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, and member of Parliament for Edmonton West, protesting the use of the Jesuit College hospital as a sanitarium for Indians, and urged that it be utilized as a hospital for returned personnel.

Following the meeting Mayor Fry stated that he was communicating with Ottawa authorities seeking decision on the use of alternative sites for a sanitarium for the Indians.

The members of the committee, it is stated, will seek a resolution from city council asking that the Jesuit College hospital be utilized for the hospitalization of returned veterans.

Three Automobiles Reported Looted

Three automobiles parked in various sections of the city Tuesday, were looted, according to city police reports Wednesday.

An automobile parked outside the Civic Block at 10 a.m. for a few minutes was found to have been broken into and two blankets were stolen. A second automobile, parked in front of 11407 123 street at 10 p.m., was divested of a trench coat which had been left inside. Two rugs also were missing.

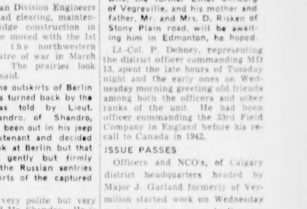

Six gallons of gasoline were reported stolen from the tank of an automobile parked near the intersection of 95 street and 103 avenue between 10.30 p.m. and 11.20 p.m.
